UN Secretary Calls On Israel And Arabs To Strengthen Truce

Western Big 3 Urge 'Good Shepherd' Role For Hammarskjold

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., May 29 (INS)—The Western Big Three powers asked the U. N. Security Council today to back up Dag Hammarskjold's peace efforts in the Middle East by assigning him a continuing "good shepherd" role in the Arab-Israeli dispute.

The U. N. secretary-general in turn appealed to the Arab states and Israel before the 11-nation body to take voluntary action for solidifying the cease-fire agreements and strengthening peace prospects. He called on the Western Powers and Russia to match such steps with actions of their own.

Lodge Backs British Plan

U. S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, sponsor of the resolution which gave Hammarskjold his Mideast mandate, announced support of a British resolution commending the U. N. chief for his mission and requesting him to continue his peace efforts among the Arabs and Israelis.

Lodge declared that it was the Security Council's duty "to consolidate the gains by the secretary-general" and prevent the recurrence of conflict along the Palestine frontiers. The American diplomat said Hammarskjold's mission had done much good and served to check "the ominious drift toward hostilities" of last March and early April.

"Fitting And Wise"

Lodge said it was "fitting and wise," to call on the secretary-general to follow up his peace mission by continuing all efforts toward a lasting Arab-Israeli settlement. He added:

"We would all be able to feel renewed confidence in the solution of the Palestine problem."

Lodge spoke after British Delegate Sir Pierson Dixon formally submitted the resolution and called on the Security Council to "foster but not force" a solution of the problem. French Representative Herve Alphand said it was "indispensable" that Hammarskjold continue his work for peace in the region.

Soviets Execute Former Premier Of Azerbaijan

MOSCOW, May 29 (AP)—Mir Dzhafar Bagirov, former Premier of Azerbaijan, has been executed with three other former officials of that Soviet Republic.

They were convicted as traitors and accomplices of the former Soviet police boss Lavernty Beria, executed as a traitor in 1953. They were convicted also of counterrevolutionary activity, use of improper police methods, intrigue against faithful Communists and loyal Soviet citizens, and of employing security organs against the state.

Paper Reveals Executions

The trials, convictions and executions were disclosed in Baku newspaper, The Worker, which reached Moscow today. Baku is the capital of Soviet Azerbaijan and the center of an important oil producing region.

The Worker carried an announcement by the Military Collegium of the Supreme Court of the U.S.S.R. It said the men executed with Bagirov were M. D. Barshchev, H. I. Grigoryan and Lt. Gen. R. A. Markaryan of the state security services.

Two other defendants, S. S. Ibrogimovich, a former vice commissar of state security; and S. Emelyanov, a former commissar for state security in Azerbaijan, were sentenced to 25 years.

Obtained False Confessions

During their public trials held in Baku April 12-26, the newspaper account added, the defendants were accused of extracting false confessions from loyal Communist party members and faithful Soviet citizens.

Bagirov, the chief defendant, was accused specifically of acting with Beria in intriguing against "that outstanding Communist, Sergei Ordzhonikidze." Ordzhonididze was an industrial expert closely associated with Stalin. His death in 1937 was attributed to natural causes. At Beria's trial, however, testimony showed Ordzhinikidze died as a result of a police plot. Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin and Communist party secretary Nikita Khrushchev recently traveled to Britain on a Soviet cruiser named for him.

Russia Proposes U. S., Soviet Fleets Exchange Visits

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP)—The Soviet embassy revealed today that Russia wants to send Soviet warships to the United States on a "courtesy call" visit that would be returned by units of the U.S. fleet.

An embassy spokesman said Russia broached the proposal last summer but nothing came of it. He implied the suggestion still stands, though he said it has not been followed up.

This disclosure came one day after the embassy extended a formal invitation to Gen. Nathan F. Twining, Air Force chief of staff, to attend Soviet aviation day ceremonies in Moscow June 24.

Moscow has ignored, however, a broad hint that the United States would welcome an invitation to all members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff to visit Russia.

Checkup For Johnson

WASHINGTON, May 29 (INS) — Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon Johnson left today for a checkup at the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn.

The Texan, who suffered a serious heart attack last July, was to have had the checkup after the Texas state Democratic convention last week but returned to his Senate duties instead.

Florida Voters Choose Between Estes And Adlai

MIAMI, Fla., May 29 (AP)—Florida recorded its choice today between Sen. Estes Kefauver and Adlai E. Stevenson in a vital Democratic presidential primary.

Balloting generally followed forecasts—light and slow—in the early hours.

While afternoon showers were predicted in a few areas, weather over most of the state was clear and warm, with little to discourage voting other than the lure of beaches and playgrounds. Most polls were open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

The bitter, drawn-out campaigning between Stevenson and Kefauver finally subsided with a final round of broadcasts last night —Stevenson on film and recordings and Kefauver in person.

This morning the Tennessee senator flew the route the former Illinois governor had taken a day earlier, to California and the last primary battle of 1956 a week from today.

Each was hoping, and predicting, he would come out of the Florida primary with a victory, a majority of 28 delegate votes at the Democratic National Convention in August and a psychological boost toward winning in California.

Florida Republicans were more or less going through the motions today, packaging together 26 votes for their national convention and handing them over to President Eisenhower.

Centrists Hold Firm In Italy

ROME, May 29 (AP)—Pro-western Center parties appeared tonight to be holding firm as Italy's major political force. With vote counting in provincial and municipal elections passing the halfway mark, these results emerged:

Impressive gains by Premier Antonio Sengi's Christian Democrats in Sicily and many parts of the Italian mainland.

New support in the industrial north for Stalin prizewinner Pietro Nenni's Communist-allied Socialists.

Communist losses in proportion to Socialist gains.

A system of proportional representation scrambled the picture in communities of more than 10,000 population. In some cities — notably Rome, Florence and Venice —returns thrust the balance of power into hands of the Fascist-Monarchist Right.

The balloting was held Sunday and Monday for city and village councils and for provincial, or county, governments. Both East and West watched the returns closely, since this was Western Europe's first major election since the Kremlin launched its anti-Stalin policy and stepped up its drive for peaceful coexistence with the West.

Kentucky Voting Heavy

LOUISVILLE, Ky. May 29 (AP)—Voting was generally heavy today as Kentuckians chose nominees for the U.S. Senate and House—the Democratic primary offering a bitter fight between Sen. Earle C. Clements and Gov. A. B. Chandler for party control.

The Republicans also voted for a senatorial candidate, but the accent was on the factional fight of the Democrats, who frequently win in the November general election.

Chandler and his forces are supporting former U.S. Rep. Joe B. Bates in the Senate race for the seat now held by Clements, assistant majority leader.

Reports indicated that balloting was heavier than usual for a Kentucky primary, possibly for these reasons:

The warm and clear weather; the voting of 18-year-olds for the first time; the high interest in the jousting of Clements and Chandler, long-time political rivals.

Fleet Units Add Realism To Annapolis June Week

ANNAPOLIS, May 29 (AP)—Navy fleet units added a dash of military realism today to the Naval Academy's traditional, story-book June Week which each year marks the end of another academic year at the service school.

The first of the warships which will take midshipmen on a summer training cruise Saturday was a reminder of future officer duty for many of the 681 scheduled to graduate Friday.

But for now they were making the most of their midshipmen status.

Visitors continued to cram into this city for the program which began last Saturday and will be climaxed with graduation on Friday.

Among those arriving today was Gov. Leroy Collins of Florida, whose son, Leroy Jr., will be commissioned an ensign in the Navy at Friday's graduation. Gov. Collins and his family are staying at government house, the home of Maryland's Gov. and Mrs. Theodore R. McKeldin, who presently are in Europe.

Rear Adm. Kenmore M. McManes, commander of the Atlantic fleet's battleship-cruiser force, also got in today.

He took the review of this afternoon's dress parade after arriving ahead of his flagship, the battleship Iowa, from which he will command the practice cruise which begins early Saturday morning. The three-month tour of sea duty for midshipmen will include stops at German, Scandanavian and English ports before the return here Aug. 31.

Seven Mass. Red Leaders Under Arrest

Six Men, Woman Accused Of Plotting Against Government

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP)—The Justice Department today announced the arrest of seven persons described as top functionaries in the Massachusetts Communist party organization. They were charged with conspiracy to violate the Smith Act.

The roundup was carried out in the Boston area, New York City and Chattanooga, Tenn.

Indictment Made Public

With the arrests, a federal grand jury indictment against the seven was made public in Boston. It charged them with conspiring go teach and advocate violent overthrow of the U. S. government.

The department identified those taken into custody as:

Michael A. Russo, 47, one-time Communist party candidate for U. S. senator and for governor of Connecticut, arrested at 566 Blue Hill Ave., Roxbury, Mass.

Otis Archer Hood, 56, picked up at 33 Gray St., Boston.

Simultaneous Arrests

Sidney Samuel Lipshires, 37, arrested at 222 Huntington Ave., Boston.

Mrs. Anne Burlak Timpson, 45, arrested at 11 Wabeno St., Roxbury.

Edward Eugene Strong, 41, arrested at 117-11 140th St., in Queens, N. Y.

Daniel Boone Schirmer, 41, arrested at 33 Fayston St., Roxbury.

Geoffrey Warner White, 29, taken into custody at 801 Hill St., in Chattanooga.

The arrests were made simultaneously by FBI agents.

Steel Contract Talks To Depart From Precedent

PITTSBURGH, May 29 (AP)—The United Steelworkers announced today a new contract bargaining procedure under which the union will meet jointly with negotiators of the three biggest steel companies to work out separate contracts. The negotiators will meet here Thursday and Friday, and resume in New York City June 6.

The steel companies named in the announcement were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, and Republic Steel Co.

This represents two substantial departures from past practices.

In the first place, union negotiators have met separately with each company in the industry, thus carefully avoiding any implication of industry-wide bargaining.

Secondly, negotiating sessions have been held in Pittsburgh for the most part, although at times in the past they were shifted to Washington and New York. Usually, this was done after the negotiators had encountered difficulties in reaching agreement, or some federal agency had intervened to assist the negotiations.

The announcement of the next step in developments was made by USW President David J. McDonald in a release distributed to reporters.

The statement said the union, in sessions that opened here Monday, has presented its contract demands to the companies, and has heard the initial views of the companies with respect to the proposals.

"Accordingly the union has proposed to U.S. Steel, Republic and Bethlehem Steel companies that a representative of each of those companies meet jointly with a subcommittee of the union in an attempt to negotiate concurrently agreements for each of the three companies . . .

"Those companies . . . have indicated their willingness to proceed in that way, with the understanding that although the representatives of the three companies will meet jointly with the union officers each company will be bargaining only for itself."

Today's Chuckle

For 15 miles the frustrated motorist had tried to pass the truck, and every effort had been stymied by the truck driver.

Finally, at a stop light, the motorist pulled up beside him.

"Well?" growled the truck driver.

"Nothing important," said the motorist. "I know what you are. I just wanted to see what one looks like."

Captured After Fatal Shooting

John Bowens, 35, Brooklyn, N. Y., is flanked by Toledo, Ohio, police when he was accused by State Trooper Robert Newell of the fatal shooting yesterday of Lucas County Deputy Sheriff Ray Westover, 35. In an exchange of shots, one of the patrolman's bullets grazed Bowens. During the wild chase, the stolen car driven by the gunman struck and killed Ann Marie Martin, 18, an X-ray student leading a blind man who was hospitalized. Bowens surrendered after he said he "had enough." (AP Photofax)

Gunman In Stolen Car Surrenders After He Kills Officer And Girl

TOLEDO, O., May 29 (INS)—An escape-crazy New York gunman killed a deputy sheriff and a young girl today before deciding he "had enough" and surrendering to Toledo, Ohio, police.

He had been captured with two companions, shot the deputy and escaped, roared into Toledo at more than 100 miles an hour and hit and killed a lovely, 18-year-old girl leading a blind man.

He jumped out of his cracked-up, stolen car with his German Luger in hand. Officers Al Szajkowski and Daniel Myslewic advanced from the barricaded intersection.

The gunman, John Bowens, 35, of Brooklyn, N. Y., dropped his Luger and told police: "I could have splattered you all over the place, but I had already killed one man, and I thought I had enough."

The man he killed was Deputy Sheriff Ray Westover, 33, the father of four children.

Bowens' stolen car, rocking out of control, later had hit Miss Ann Martin and Alva J. Francis, both X-ray technicians at St. Charles Hospital in Toledo. Miss Martin was killed instantly. Francis, blind, was in a critical condition at the hospital.

Ohio Highway Patrolman Robert Newell had begun chasing the speeding car east of the city. He radioed to Toledo police and Lucas County Sheriff's deputies to set up road blocks.

Deputy Westover usually parks at the intersection of Route 2 and Wynn road east of the city, early in the morning, to watch for the school bus.

Bernice Kwiatkowski, 27, who lives in an apartment at the intersection and knows the deputy, reported he waved to her this morning as he leaped into his car.

"Just as he pulled across the road," she said, "the car came to stop. Ray got out of his car, and I saw three men get out of the auto. Just then a state patrol car (Patrolman Newell) arrived, and the state patrolman began searching one of the three while Ray was searching a second."

The two other men arrested in the auto were 24-year-old Philip Powell of Philadelphia and 32-year-old Walter Bryant of New York. Police said they had stolen the car and $100 from the owner three days ago in New York.

Miss Kwiatkowski said.

"I saw the third man (Bowens) run around the car with Ray after him. He shot Ray as he came around the fender. It happened so fast Ray didn't have a chance to draw his gun."

Kefauver's Plane Develops Trouble

NEW ORLEANS, May 29—(INS)—A Delta Airlines DC-7 plane carrying Sen. Estes Kefauver to his California presidential primary campaign, developed engine trouble today and was forced to turn back and land in New Orleans.

Delta officials said the four-engine plane developed "mechanical trouble" about 10 minutes out of New Orleans and the pilot chose to turn back. The trouble was in the engine.

About 65 persons were aboard the plane, including Gen. James Doolittle, who led the first air attack on Tokyo during World War II.

Forest Fire Threatens New Mexico Resort

RUIDOSO, N.M., May 29 (AP)—A forest fire broke out today less than two miles from this southern New Mexico resort community and an aerial observer reported it out of control and moving toward town.

Charter pilot Ralph Brown, who has observed fires for the Forest Service six years in this area, said a twisting high wind was moving the flames toward the popular vacation center.

A pall of smoke hung over the town. Ashes and embers from the burning trees fell into streets and yards.

Volunteers were attempting to protect an estimated 35 cabins and homes in the area between the town and the fire. Cause of the fire was not known.

Turk Cypriots Riot Anew; Two Greeks Killed

NICOSIA, Cyprus, May 29 (AP)—Two Greek Cypriots were shot dead today, one by a gunman concealed in a crowd of mourners at the funeral of a Turkish policeman cut down by a bomb.

Turkish Cypriots rioted anew in Nicosia, the capital of this British Mediterranean colony, in their feud with islanders of Greek blood.

A bomb thrown into a military vehicle in Nicosia Sunday as part of a militant campaign for union of Cyprus with Greece fatally injured the Turkish policeman who was buried today.

Crowd Used As Screen

The funeral was held in the village of Omorphita, near Nicosia. The gunman used the crowd as a screen to slay the Greek Cypriot, whose people outnumber the Turks here 4-to-1.

A few hours earlier a Greek truck driver was killed and his companion was seriously wounded on the Nicosia-Famagusta road by gunfire from four men. The wounded man said the assailants talked to each other in Turkish.

Throngs of Turks returning from the policeman's funeral smashed windows and doors of an oxygen-bottling factory, roughed up two workers and set the place afire. The fire was put out.

British Troops Called Out

Crowds of Turkish Cypriots gathered in Nicosia's Ataturk Square, named for the father of modern Turkey. A Greek employe of Cable & Wireless, a British communications company, was attacked and beaten up.

A group of Turks stoned and overturned an ice truck.

British troops and police riot squads were called out and ordered to stand by to deal with any further outbreaks.

Wilson Will Visit Scene Of H-Tests

WASHINGTON, May 29 (INS)—Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson announced today that he will leave Washington Saturday to spend several days in the Atomic Energy Commission's Pacific proving grounds, where the 1956 H-bomb test series is being conducted.

A spokesman said it could be assumed that Wilson will witness a test explosion, provided one can be set off during the period of his visit. The scheduled tests frequently have been postponed in the past because of weather conditions.

Presbyterians Hear Senator Propose Billion Dollar Atomic Power Program

PHILADELPHIA, May 29 (AP)—Sen. Clinton P. Anderson (D-NM), who heads the Joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee, today proposed a billion-dollar U.S. foreign atomic power program "to meet the threat that godless Russia now poses."

Anderson, in an address before the 168th General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. also suggested an accompanying training program for scientists from among "the uncommitted peoples of the earth."

The vast plan would run over a probable five-year period, and would serve also as a testing medium for fuller development of America's domestic atomic power program.

Pointing out that in the U.S. atomic power plants can not now meet the cost competition of "conventional plants using fossil fuels," Anderson said:

"There are areas of the earth where power costs are high and where atomic power is soon to be cheaper than conventional power.

"Do we like the threat that godless Russia now poses in atomic science? Shall we permit a Communist country to occupy the areas that we leave open? Russia will build an atomic plant in East Germany, is pushing atomic development in Red China, has her eyes on Egypt, and will undoubtedly expand her atomic penetration whenever and wherever the chance may come."

To counteract the Russian program, Anderson suggested that the United States send to "friendly lands" the most promising types of nuclear reactors and, at the same time, train key personnel to man them.

The program, he said, would cost approximately five billion dollars over the five-year period—"only a small part of what is now contemplated in military aid."

"I think it would pay far greater dividends both in security and satisfaction," he continued. "Actually the House of Representatives seems to feel that the cost of foreign aid might be cut a billion dollars this year—enough for a whole program of international atomic aid."

His plan, Anderson said, would enable the United States to "revise and rework" various types of atomic plants under actual test conditions "and thus have them ready for our use at home when the cost of their electricity became competitive with the energy we now have in abundance."

Senate Votes Both Ways On Wage Issue

Approves Proposals Giving States, U. S. Identical Authority

WASHINGTON, May 29 (INS) — The Senate refused tonight to accept a House-passed formula for distributing road funds to states under the proposed multi-billion-dollar highway program.

The key vote of 56 to 27 came as the Senate drove to complete action tonight on the 37 billion dollar legislation to build a coast-to-coast network of bigger and better roads.

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP)—The Senate, riding a parliamentary merry-go-round, voted both ways today on the question of who should fix minimum wages for work on a multibillion dollar highway program.

First it voted 40-39 to allow the states to set the wage rates, attaching an amendment to that effect to the House version of the highway bill.

An hour later the Senate voted 42-37 to give the rate-fixing authority to the federal government. This decision was made in an amendment to the Senate version of the legislation.

Both amendments stand until the Senate decides which version of the bill it will pass. The odds appeared to be in favor of the Senate version, worked out by the Senate Finance and Public Works Committees.

Nixon Gets Into Act

Vice President Nixon got into the act when he was called upon to break a tie vote of 39-39 on the proposal of Sen. Knowland (D-Calif) to let the states set the minimum wage rates. Knowland offered his amendment while the House bill was before the Senate temporarily, and Nixon voted for it.

Knowland then tried to table an amendment to the Senate bill by Sen. Chavez (D-NM) which would have the secretary of labor establish the wage rates for construction work on the proposed 40,000-mile system of interstate highways.

"If you ever want to preserve state rights, this is the hour, this is the place, this is the issue," Knowland told his colleagues.

But his tabling motion was lost 41-37.

Before winning adoption of his amendment, Chavez modified it so that the secretary of labor would have to seek the advice of state officials in determining wage rates.

First Test Of Strength

The House has already voted to give the federal government the rate-fixing authority. It rejected the "states' rights" plan 192-77. Any differences between the House and Senate will have to be ironed out by a conference committee.

The bewildering series of Senate votes was the first test of strength on the mammoth highway bill, which calls for, in the Senate version, 37 billion dollars worth of federal-state roadbuilding over the next 13 years. It also provides for a wide range of tax

Train Derailed But No One Hurt

WILLIAMSON, W. Va., May 29 (AP) — The locomotive, tender and five cars of the seven-car Norfolk and Western Railway's "Powhatan Arrow" passenger train, eastbound from Cincinnati to Norfolk, derailed 25 miles east of Williamson at 1:53 p. m. today.

P. C. Wingo, Pocahontas Division superintendent at Bluefield, said all cars remained upright and that no one was injured.

The derailment occurred at Devon, post office O'Keefe, on the Tug River, natural boundary between West Virginia and Kentucky.

The wreck was the third on this section of the N&W this year—two of them involving passenger trains.

The westbound "Pocahontas" jumped the track at Cedar Curve, 15 miles from Devon, Jan. 23, killing the engineer and injuring 32 other persons.

On Feb. 15, a Norfolk & Western locomotive, en route eastward to Williamson with no cars, slammed into a shifter engine which was backing onto the mainline at Glenalum, about 35 miles southwest of here. Two crewmen were killed.

The Interstate Commerce Commission ruled recently, after weeks of investigation of the Jan. 23 wreck, that it had been caused by excessive speed.

Ike Presented Contraption To Make His Chores Easier

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP)—At 10:09 a.m. today, President Eisenhower's daily chores became far easier.

For at that moment he was given a "Presidential Decision Meter"—a contraption designed to help him make important executive and strategic decisions—by Gerald Miller, a 16-year-old high school junior from Kalispell, Mont.

"Good," said Eisenhower, with a grin. "Now I'll have more time to play golf."

The idea behind the machine is simple enough. All Eisenhower has to do is to put down the reasons for and against taking any step, apply a plus or a minus value to each, and settle back and see what the P.D.M. has to say.

Eisenhower also got a big kick out of a small radio, which gets its power from the sun, given him by Miller's schoolmate, Everett O'Hare, a 17-year-old senior, figures the President can use it to keep track of the news while he golfs.

"Doesn't the sun have to hit it?" Eisenhower asked.

O'Hare assured him a little sunlight would keep it charged. "You can keep it in your pocket," he said.

Unfortunately, Murray Snyder, the President's assistant press secretary, already had put away both gifts before the President met the boys. So the chance of a first hand demonstration was missed.

The two boys are here with their science teacher, Richard M. Nelson, 30.

Nelson was named "Teacher of the Year" by McCall's magazine.

The radio and the P.D.M. were both built as projects in Nelson's science courses.

"What sports do you go in for?" Eisenhower asked. "I don't mean th ones you go in for vicariously by sitting in the grandstand."

He seemed pleased to learn the fledgling scientists have tried their hand at basketball and baseball.

"Everyone should have at least one sport," Eisenhower said.

"I ski," Nelson said.

Eisenhower explained that he had injured his knee playing football in 1912 and had had to give up the more rugged sports.

Record Contract Bond Underwritten

BALTIMORE, May 29 (AP) — The Fidelity and Deposit Co. of Baltimore reported today it had underwritten the largest single contract bond ever issued—$46,000,000—to insure completion of the Priest Rapids dam and powerhouse on the Columbia River in Washington.

The bond is equal to 50 per cent of the contract price of the project, to be constructed between the Saddle Mountains and Yakima Ridge, near the eastward bend of the river.

The bond guarantees the satisfactory completion of the job by the Merritt-Chapman and Scott Corp. of New York, sole contractor.

The dam itself will be a concrete and earthfill structure 8,825 feet long and 175 feet high. Construction includes a power plant and installation of all major equipment.

Primary Battle On "High Level" Urged By Adlai

SAN FRANCISCO, May 29 (AP)—Adlai Stevenson today challenged Sen. Estes Kefauver to restore their campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination to what he called a "high level."

Stevenson and Kefauver, who have been barking at each other in the Florida contest for delegate votes, swung into action today in their California campaign, expected to produce considerable talk about civil rights and social welfare issues.

Before he took off from Los Angeles for a luncheon speech in San Francisco, Stevenson read to an early morning news conference a statement he said he had composed in the bathtub. He proposed that his battle with Kefauver be put back on a "high level."

"I deplore the way the primary campaign deteriorated in Florida after the election in Oregon," Stevenson said. "I hope the same thing will not happen here in California.

"As a candidate for the presidency of the United States, I shall try to honor my obligation to discuss our public problems in a manner befitting the exalted office. To demean the presidency, to diminish its status and dignity, does our republic a disservice."

Senate Votes

increases on highway users to pay for it.

There were a number of switches and changes in the two key votes on rate-fixing authority.

Sens. Malone (R-Nev) and Johnston (D-SC) first voted for the Knowland state wage amendment and then switched to support the Chavez federal wage provision.

Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) missed the first vote but voted against the Chavez provision.

Sen. Capehart (R-Ind) did not vote on the first test but was paired for it and then switched to support the Chavez provision.

Sen. Eastland (D-Miss) and Smathers (D-Fla) first voted for the Knowland proposal and then were paired on the Chavez proposal.

Sen. Fulbright (D - Ark) was paired for the Knowland provision but voted against the Chavez proposal.

After the controversy over the wage issue, the Senate quickly adopted by voice vote an amendment by Sen. Margaret Chase Smith (R-Me) directing the secretary of commerce to undertake a highway safety study.

Benson Believes Ike Farm Policy Criticism Ebbing

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson said today he thinks the Eisenhower administration's farm policy "is more widely accepted now than ever before."

He expressed the opinion when asked whether the new farm bill signed by President Eisenhower yesterday would help to quiet criticism of administration farm policy in this election year.

"As a matter of fact, there is less criticism of administration farm policy now than ever before," Benson replied. "I think the policy is more widely accepted now than ever before. I also think every move this administration has made in the agricultural field has been sound."

A five-year decline in farm prices has been a matter of deep concern in Washington.

The new farm legislation, providing a $1,200,000,000-a-year soil bank program under which farmers will be paid for withdrawing land from the cultivation of crops in surplus supply, is expected to help the situation.

Eisenhower said yesterday the soil bank plan would aid in bringing the production of major crops into balance with their markets.

"It will check current additions to our price-depressing, market-destroying surplus stocks of farm products," he said. "It is a concept rich with promise for improving our agricultural situation."

Benson conferred with Eisenhower today on plans for getting the soil bank going as soon as possible.

Whooping Cranelet Born In Captivity

NEW ORLEANS, May 29 (AP)—Crip and Josephine, the whooping cranes, became proud parents today.

The tiny, brownish chick, or cranelet, or whatever baby cranes are called, made its appearance at 2:36 p.m. CST.

George Douglass, superintendent of Audubon Park Zoo, where Crip and Josephine have taken up residence, announced the hatching with all the breathlessness and enthusiasm of a new father.

"It's the first time a whooping crane was ever born in a zoo and the first time in captivity," Douglass said. "One was born in the Aransas refuge in Texas some years ago, but I don't consider that captivity."

Georgia Demos Call For Louder Voice

ATLANTA, May 29 (AP) — Gov. Marvin Griffin today demanded a louder voice for the South in the Democratic national convention.

He told a meeting of the Georgia Democratic Executive Committee that some national leaders seem determined "to crucify us and our age-old way of life."

In another speech, John Sammons Bell, chairman of the state group, expressed hope no member would "be the least bit sympathetic to the presidential aspirations of renegade senator from Tennessee, Estes Kefauver, or Gov. Averell Harriman of New York."

Griffin accused the national leaders of making a spectacle of the 1952 convention and said that because the convention was closely televised it was highly probable "the people of the country decided they did not want that kind of leadership."

Story Of Life And Death Of Roland James Is Story Of All America On Memorial Day

"The 30th day of May is designated for the purpose of strewing with flowers or otherwise decorating the graves of comrades who died in defense of their country." From a general order, 1868.

By RELMAN MORIN

CLARKS SUMMIT, Pa., May 29 (AP) — On a gentle slope in the mountains, one valley away from the white house where he grew up, lies the grave of Corp. Roland James.

Who was Roland James? He was a young American. He was the kid with the catcher's mitt, the boy down the street in every town in America.

A hero? Yes, he was a hero. He has joined the men who fell at Bull Run and El Caney, in the Argonne, on beaches known only as "Red" or "Green," at the Changjin Reservoir, in the air, beneath the sea.

Tomorrow, the people who loved Roland James, and some who never knew him, will gather beside his grave with fresh flowers and a bright new flag. And in honoring his memory, they will be honoring all the Americans who died in all the wars this nation has known.

For his story, his life, and the manner of his death, is the story of all America on this day.

The first Memorial Day services were held in 1868.

At the national cemetery in Arlington, the speaker was James A. Garfield, who later became president of the United States. He spoke of America—

"Peace, liberty and personal security were blessings as common and universal as sunshine."

Roland James was born in 1919, two days before Christmas. A year earlier, World War I had ended. No enemy threatened America now. No critical foreign problems loomed. An era of true peace opened. This boy, and all of his generation, grew up without knowledge of war or fear of bloodshed.

He was the third of four children, two boys and two girls. His father, a tool designer, and his tall and beautiful mother held the family closely together. They sang beside the piano in the living room, and had picnics with their friends in the back yard.

The apple tree, the picnic table, and the homemade grill seem somehow like a family shrine now.

At Arlington, in 1868, Garfield said—

"The faith of our people in the stability and permanence of their institutions was like their faith in the eternal courses of nature."

Like millions of other boys, Roland James' life was bounded by his home, his church, and his school. He was taught to worship, to cherish and respect his elders, to obey authority. He was taught that he must work for whatever he got, and to save what he earned.

TAPS TO HONOR THEIR HERO DEAD—Eileen Strickland, 5, and Richard Davis, 13, two residents of Moose Child City, Mooseheart, Ill., honor the memory of a Mooseheart graduate, Sgt. John Burch, killed in Germany in World War II. Eileen, formerly of Jerome, Idaho, places a wreath on the hero's grave as Richard, formerly of Lafayette, Ind., blows taps. All of the 800 child residents will take part in Memorial Day services.

"He was only an ordinary student," his mother says, although he had a talent for drawing. He became an officer of his high school class and president of his Sunday School organization.

He delivered groceries, clerked in the post office, lugged trays of dishes in a restaurant — all those ways American kids have always found to get some pocket money.

He collected stamps and Indian-head pennies, and put them in a tin box which — echoing the depression — he labelled "N.R.A." Once, when he was pretty small, he took his pennies, 35 of them, to buy "flowers for my grandmother — it's her birthday." The florist gave him more than he could carry.

On that first Memorial Day, Congressman Garfield looked out across the graves at Arlington and recalled —

"We were the most unwarlike nation on earth."

Roland James and the boys his age were hardly in their 'teens before the shadow of war came again to the earth. First it was Japan and Manchuria, then Mussolini and Ethiopia. Then Hitler marched into the Rhineland, and took Austria, and no hand was lifted against him.

This was all in the 1930's, the day of the dictators. The era of peace was gone now.

During that time, Roland James was on his high school baseball, track, and swimming teams. He sang in the glee club. He was tall, nearly 6 feet, with light, curly hair, and an engaging grin.

He liked the girls, "all of them," his mother says, and he was popular with everybody. Opposite his picture in the high school annual is the couplet, "Roland James is the sort, who always is a good sport."

He had been in the University of Idaho nearly two years, studying forestry, when he ran out of money. So he got a job in Alaska, in a mine, and saved $900. But he had a premonition he would not see college again. "I think I've got a date with Uncle Sam," he said.

And he was right.

Across the years, James A. Garfield might have been describing, not his world, but America after the first shock of Pearl Harbor —

"In a moment, we were not merely a people with an army—we were a people in arms."

Roland James came home. The poignant little scene that ensued was being played out, at the same time, in countless American homes. He said he intended to enlist. He was going to join the Marines.

"He just wanted to be with them," his mother says.

He enlisted in Scranton and was recommended for officers' training. But first he was a "boot," a rookie, in San Diego, Calif., and Bremerton, Wash. He wrote home regularly —

"They certainly don't hand out anything for nothing in this outfit" . . . "I can't wait to get back under the apple tree and tell you all about this" . . . "We have a distinguished visitor coming tomorrow, old Franklin Delano himself. I sure hope he comes through my gate."

This one still brings tears —

"Dear Mom: In the near future, you should receive a little package for your birthday. I'm a little late but you know how it is when you are trying to win a war, heh! heh!"

He applied for transfer to combat duty. And like practically every man in all the armed forces then, he devised a code to keep his parents informed where he was. It worked on a set of equivalents, thus —

"Postal Service" — Pearl Harbor, "Gingham dress" — New Zealand, "the old apple tree" — Wake Island, "courthouse square" — China, and so on.

He didn't have on his list a mountainous island, Saipan.

The speaker at Arlington neared the end of his oration —

"Each for himself gathered up the cherished purposes of life, its aims and ambitions, its dearest affections, and flung all, with life itself, into the scale of battle."

The story of Roland James nears its end.

On June 15, 1944, as a corporal in Company B, First Battalion, Eighth Marines, he hit the beach at Saipan. A week later, on "D plus eight," his outfit was fighting its way through a valley toward the summit of Mt. Topochau, last Japanese stronghold. If he had lived another day—

Back home, months had gone by without a letter from him. "No news is good news," his father kept saying.

Then one day, the telegram came.

They brought his body home and laid it on a slope almost within sight of his house. It is marked with a flat stone, an urn, and a proud little flag.

There, tomorrow, with all the other graves marked with military emblems and bright new flags and flowers, a volley will be fired and the high school bugler will sound "Taps."

On Memorial Day, when it was first celebrated, James A. Garfield said, "I love to believe that no heroic sacrifice is ever lost."

The same thought is expressed on the scroll signed by President Roosevelt and sent to Roland James' family. It is for all the American fighting men who died in battle —

"He stands in the unbroken line of patriots who have dared to die that freedom might live. . . . freedom lives and through it, he lives, in a way that humbles the undertakings of most men."

British Mormon Temple

LONDON, May 29 (AP)—Construction will start this week on the first Mormon temple in Britain, at Lingfield, about 20 miles south of London. The temple is expected to be completed in 18 months at a cost of about 400,000 pounds ($1,120,000), most of it contributed by Americans. There are about 10,000 in Britain.

More than a million pounds of salt was used for table and household purposes in the U. S. in 1955.

It takes about five quarts of milk to make a pound of American cheddar cheese.

Czech Strike Forces Changes In Conditions

VIENNA, Austria, May 29 (AP)—A strike recently forced changes in working conditions in the second largest steel works in Communist-ruled Czechoslovakia, diplomatic sources here reported today.

They said strikers in the steel plant at Kladno, Bohemia, demanded the removal of inexperienced workers from dangerous jobs at the smelting ovens after several had been killed and injured in accidents. Management finally released them because of the strike, the sources said.

The Canadian government renamed the 16 peaks surrounding Maligne lake in Jasper National park in Alberta the "Queen Elizabeth ranges."

Lloyds Would Insure Atomic Power Station

LONDON, May 29 (AP)—Lloyds of London said today they're prepared to offer insurance on an atomic power station.

"The risks invoived will be little different from those encountered in many modern industrial or power production plants," the British Insurance Assn., reported after Lloyd's men had inquired into atomic energy risks.

Japanese And Calories

TOKYO, May 29 (AP)—The Japanese people ate a daily average of 2,074 calories last year. This was short of the 2,198 calories the Welfare Ministry claims is necessary for proper nutrition, but far better than the 1,903 daily average in 1946, the first postwar year.

County Receives Figures On Coal Purchases

At the request of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners a complete list of coal purchases by the county has been compiled by Mrs. Johanna N. Sills, county auditor.

The purchases cover the period from April 1, 1955 to March 31, 1956. Coal is bought by the county through a system whereby the head of the department affected does the ordering when fuel is needed. This procedure has been followed for at least the past five years.

Stoker coal for the County Jail and County Infirmary was bought from Ayers Brothers, this city, with the price $11.30 per ton oiled. Ayers furnished 35.70 tons of stoker coal for the jail at a cost of $415.41 and 131.11 tons to the County Infirmary for $1,525.43.

William Turnbull of Lonaconing furnished run-of-mine coal for the Union Street County Building, Sylvan Retreat, County Home and Court House at $7.50 per ton. For the one-year period Turnbull sold $3,152.57 worth of coal to the county.

The Turnbull coal amounted to 64.38 tons for the Union Street County Building, 128.77 tons for Sylvan Retreat, 104.63 tons for the County Home, and 112.69 tons for the Court House building.

Frank Lewis of Frostburg sold 20 tons and 700 pounds of stoker coal for use at the County Garage on Franklin Street for $9.50 per ton. Total cost was $193.33.

Edward L. Winebrenner of Mt. Savage sold 29 tons, 900 pounds of run-of-mine coal for use at the County Garage building for $7.50 per ton. Total cost was $205.88.

All told, the county purchased $5,492.62 worth of both stoker and run-of-mine coal for use during the year ending March 31, 1956.

Commissioner Charles N. Wilkinson yesterday inquired as to the status of legal action which had been suggested last week to determine if the county is required to advertise for bids on coal.

Gorman E. Getty, attorney to the board, said it has been determined that an "adverse party" will have to bring the suit asking for a declaratory decree by Circuit Court. He said he will ask some official of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce to do this as a "public service."

Wilkinson then complained that since the plan for a court decree had been decided upon the delivery of 25 tons of coal had been made at the Court House. He made a motion to stop all purchases of coal until the court passes on the procedure which must be followed. The motion lost for want of a second.

Chapman Makes Report On Food Distribution

A report on the distribution of surplus federal food in Allegany County during the past two years was read yesterday at the meeting of the Board of County Commissioners.

J. Walker Chapman, who had charge of the program for the commissioners, began reading the data when Commissioner Charles N. Wilkinson started from the room. Chapman told Wilkinson that "this might be of interest to you as part of the county government." Wilkinson retorted: "You tend to your own business".

Following the reading of the report Chapman suggested the board pay tribute to volunteer workers who have assisted in the program in various communities, Red Cross chapters, who have aided, and the various organizations who made available their buildings as distribution points.

He mentioned the Legion in Westernport, Volunteer Firemen in Barton, Midland, Clarysville, Frostburg, and Cresaptown; St. Michael's Catholic Church in Frostburg, Veterans of Foreign Wars in Lonaconing and Mt. Savage for providing workers and their halls.

Chapman said the surplus food had to be handled four times during its distribution. First it had to be unloaded from railroad cars and trucks, placed in storage, reloaded to trucks and then handled at distribution points. All told, more than 6,000,000 pounds of food was handled during the two year period.

Value of the food distributed during the two years was $460,115.78 and it cost $35,047.74 to distribute. The value of the various type food distributed follows. Butter, $173,568.80; cheese, $137,212.20; dried milk, $57,563.20; lard, $10,346.30; shortening, $32,937; flour, $13,205.50; cornmeal, $4,647.50; pork and gravy (in cans), $7,607.50; lunch meat, $6,997.78; beef and gravy (in cans), $16,020.

The cost per family to deliver the food was .449 cents and .188 per person. The food per family was valued at $6.69 and $2.46 per person per month. Each family averaged $160.56 worth of food during the 24 months period while each person received an average of $59.84 during the same period.

On a percentage basis there were 28 per cent of families with only one person, 23 per cent with two persons, 14.2 per cent with three persons, 12 per cent with four persons, nine per cent with five, five per cent with six persons, 4.1 per cent with seven persons, two per cent with eight persons, 1.1 per cent with nine persons and 1.2 per cent with 10 persons.

Fletcher Will Attend State Meeting

State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher will attend the annual meeting of Maryland state's attorneys June 8 and 9 at Ocean City.

Five proposed new laws, one dealing with state aid to mothers of illegitimate children, will be discussed by the group.

The State's Attorneys Association of Maryland was requested by the Legislative Council to study a proposal that welfare laws be amended to limit support for mothers who bear several illegitimate children.

The proposal would limit support money to one child. Julius A. Romano, a Baltimore prosecutor, has been given the job of investigating the legal points involved.

Also to be discussed are proposals for a habitual offender law, that appeal courts be empowered to review and consider changes in criminal sentences, that laws be passed to control admission of alibis, and that laws dealing with burglary be amended.

J. Wallace Reidt of the Criminal Justice Commission will speak at the closing session on the proposal to create a Bail Bond Commission to supervise and regulate the posting of bail bonds throughout Maryland.

County Roads Supervisor Cites Digging Violations

J. Walker Chapman, county roads supervisor, told the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday that a number of violations of the regulations pertaining to digging on or along county roads have come to his attention in recent weeks.

He cited the case on Cherry Lane Road, which leads from the Vale Summit Road to State Route 36, as an example. He said the Maryland Coal and Realty Company of Frostburg has filled in a ditch along this road without first receiving county permission.

Chapman asked the board to instruct its attorney to notify the company of the violation and ask that the situation be remedied.

The commissioners were also notified that a meeting of the Budget and Finance Committee of the Legislative Council will be held June 6 at 10:30 a. m. at the City Hall in Baltimore.

The session is being held to discuss Senate resolutions which call for a study of statutes relating to public advertising by the state or any political subdivision.

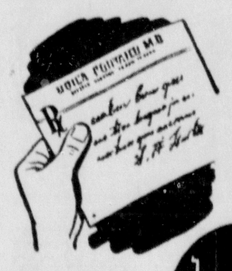

A study of the statutes will be made to determine if all or some of the procedures now in use can be improved. The letter was signed by Carl N. Everstine, secretary of the Council.

Secrets Of Charm

Summer Coolers

There'll come a time very soon now when the only way you really want to look is cool.

Never mind those special effects of any kind if they don't contribute to the one effect that counts — the fresh-as-mint, cool-as-a-cucumber delight you can be to the heat weary eye.

Tackle the problem lightly, with light makeup, light fragrances, light colors for your clothes. And don't forget for a moment that the serene smoothness that comes only with perfect grooming never counts more than it does now.

Your skin must look cool, which means taking no chances with tanning. Tan lightly and take your time about it — the quickest way to spoil all your efforts is with a burn. Protect your skin against the sun with burn preventing lotions. Then keep make-up at a minimum and use perhaps lighter shades than usual. Remove every trace and start over as often as you can.

And you must feel cool. Sun glasses help because they prevent the squinting and burning that continues even after retreat into shade. Frequent tepid, soapy baths have a lot to do with it, too, and chilly colognes, slightly pungent of garden dewy rather than sweet. If they're light enough, you can be lavish after bathing and continue a cool freshness about you all day. Keep a small bottle or stick cologne handy to apply to your temples and wrists when you powder your nose.

This is no time for much jewelry or a complicated hair-do. It is time for simple, perfect dresses in ice cream colors and a wonderful straw hat, the biggest and most flattering you've had in years.

What Does Your Walk Say About You?

For a young girl, a droop shouldered, shambling walk is certainly unfortunate. For an older woman, it's disastrous. The younger person may have good points which at least do something to save her, but the mature woman can't escape the certain stamp of age such a walk puts upon her.

An erect, brisk carriage is young, alert, spirited, graceful—attractive for anyone of any number of years. A slumping stance and gait is old, tired, discouraged, clumsy. There's always grave danger in hunching bad posture because the lungs are crowded and the circulation, digestion, and position of internal organs are affected. And in the case of the older woman, it hastens the settling down into the bones that comes with age and makes her look really old before her time.

Is your walk telling tales about you, tales that aren't true? Good for you if it doesn't stick to the truth if what it says is flattering. Your walk can be very flattering about how old you are. No woman who walks with her head high, her shoulders and chest up and with a light and rhythmic step can look old. But how sad it is to see a young girl hobbling like a crone. She's already lost so much of the bright, appealing look of youth.

The drooping figure sketched can't possibly be you, but are you sure you always — not just sometimes — look exactly like the other sketch? Slumping has a way of becoming an established habit before you know it. Take no chance on it. First learn body alignment, the basis of all good posture and of the young and graceful walk that can do so much to flatter you. My booklet, "Your Posture," describes it and shows you how to perfect it. The booklet's yours for 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope sent to me at this newspaper.

Tomorrow: A luxury every woman can afford.

2 Jr. Clubs Win National Contest

The Junior Woman's Club of Chevy Chase, with a membership of 200, and the Junior Woman's Club of Hampstead with a membership of 26 were the two Maryland clubs awarded prizes in the Community Achievement contest sponsored by the General Federation of Women's Clubs, and Sears-Roebuck Foundation. Awards were made at the convention in Kansas City, earlier this month.

For the contest, clubs were divided into two groups, those with membership up to 75 and those with membership above 75. Prizes were offered for the best community projects undertaken in 1954-56, with special emphasis on cooperation and participation of other groups and individuals with the clubs initiating the project.

Chevy Chase club is planning a series of six 30-minute art instruction programs to promote interest in educational television in the Washington area. The club raised $700 towards the purchase of a blood bank refrigerator for Suburban Hospital in cooperation with other organizations. Members also have given varied volunteer service to the hospital.

By offering $1,625 towards the purchase of a school bus for use with Special Education Services, the club obtained commitment from the Board of Education for $2,000 to complete the purchase.

"Hospital Day," when 38 patients from the nearby state mental hospital were guests of Hampstead, was the major achievement of the Hampstead club. It was the first time that a group of such patients had been taken into a community for personal contacts and an especially planned day. The patients chosen were those about ready to return to society.

As December 17 was the date, the program included a Christmas party and gifts. In order to promote interest in securing county library service for the town, the club procured an antique baby carriage, upholstered it and filled it with books. "Books a la Carte" became a familiar sight at Rotary, Lions and other gatherings, so county library service is now on its way.

Because of the serious traffic situation in the town, the club secured cooperation of other civic groups to petition the city council for action. Now a policeman is on duty at the main intersection during the morning and afternoon when children are using the thoroughfare, and is on call throughout the rest of the day and night. The club is still working to obtain an automatic light service.

A rummage sale will be held by the Dames of Malta, Star of the East Chapter 111, Friday from 6 until 9 and Saturday 9 until 12, at 75 North Centre Street.

Reservations for RWSC, June 18-23, are to be made by Friday.

10,000 M.P.H. Speed Recorded In Laboratory

MOFFETT FIELD, Calif., May 29 (AP)—The National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics today reported it had achieved the fastest flight speeds ever recorded under laboratory test conditions—exceeding 10,000 m.p.h., about 20 times the speed of sound.

The government research agency said this record speed was set by a small missile model fired from a newly developed light-gas gun. The NACA operates the Ames Aeronautical Laboratory here.

NACA told the Aviation Writers Assn., in a prepared release, that the new gun is the forerunner of a larger device which will fire up to 16,000 m.p.h.

The model was fired under conditions which reproduced at full-scale the speed which would be encountered by an intercontinental ballistic missile as it plunges toward the earth near the end of its long arc through space.

The speed is more than twice that reported for the Aerobee-hi sounding rocket used by the Air Force and the Navy.

That rocket has traveled 6 times the speed of sound, or about 5,000 m.p.h.

The NACA said its light-gas gun was based on principles worked out at the New Mexico School of Mines where a "hydrogen gun" was developed during World War II.

NACA scientists added technical improvements and adapted the gun to aerodynamics research using helium, another light gas, as the working medium. For test purposes, the gun is fired into a pressurized tank filled with air to any pressure to simulate various altitudes. Sometimes the tank is filled with gases other than air.

The missile model is recovered by stopping it with a wall of instant shaving lather backed up by bakers' flour.

A larger gun, soon to be built, will be able to produce speeds of more than 30 times the speed of sound.

The NACA said the new research equipment was developed to meet an urgent need for reliable information on the design of long range ballistic missiles.

"It is expected that these missiles will fly at speeds between 10,000 and 15,000 m.p.h. and that they will return to the earth's atmosphere at these speeds," the NACA said.

"Research information is thus essential to design missiles to withstand the temperatures and forces they will encounter."

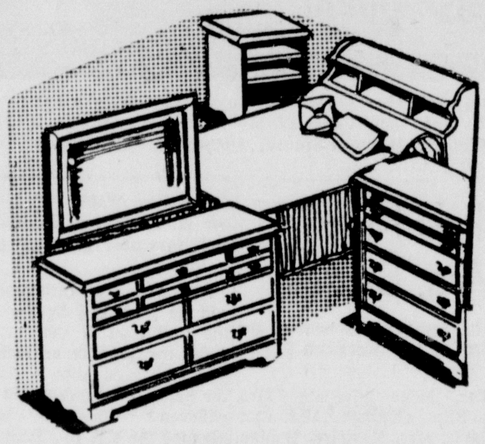

A chicken dinner will be held at Centerville, Pa., Methodist Church 11:30 this morning, following a memorial service in the church at 10:30.

Cool Weather, Lack Of Rain Holding Up Maryland Crops

COLLEGE PARK, Md., May 29 (AP) — Vegetables for the dinner table will come late in Maryland this year.

Cool weather and lack of rain held up the growth of such crops as asparagus, potatoes, tomatoes, snap beans and limas, the Maryland Crop Reporting Service said today.

In many cases, farmers had to replant tomatoes and peas after frost killed their first crops.

The seeding of sweet corn is about halfway through and setting of sweet potatoe plants has started south of the Delmarva Peninsula.

Among field crops, early planted corn is only four to eight inches high. At this time last spring, it was 10 to 15 inches. Barley, winter oats, rye and wheat are reported in good condition.

Southern Maryland tobacco growers are beginning to set out their plants.

In the pasture scene, farmers in north central Maryland are cutting orchard grass for hay and silage. Clover mixtures and pastures have been retarded by the weather.

In the orchard business, apple and peaches not destroyed by the frost are beginning to size in the Hancock area. Strawberry picking is shy of the peak.

State Medical Board Ouster Case Resumes

CAMBRIDGE, May 29 (AP) — A move by the State Board of Medical Examiners to dismiss Dr. Robert H. Reddick as its secretary-treasurer resumes tomorrow in Dorchester County Circuit Court.

The board presented its case on May 4. The hearing was recessed until tomorrow.

Drs. Julius Chetko, Edward J. Simon, Joseph H. Watson and Robert A. Follweiler, acting as board members, contended that while they voted Dr. Reddick out of office, he has refused to turn over records, funds and property of the board and to refrain from serving as the secretary-treasurer.

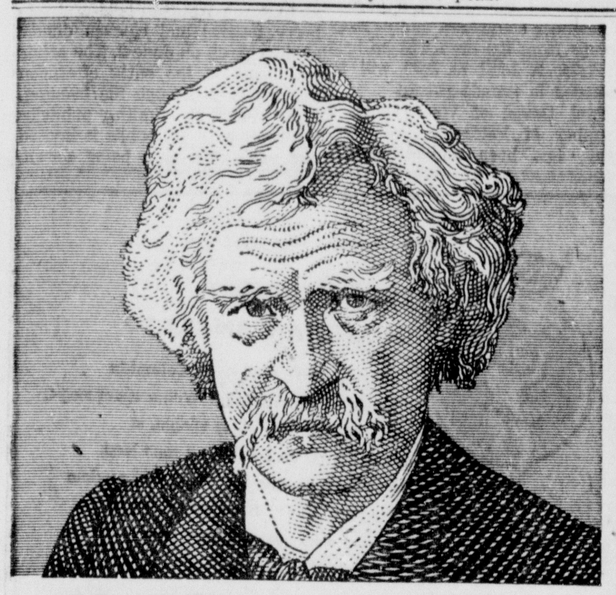

They did not give a reason in their petition as to why they voted Reddick out of office.

Billboard Ban In Residential Areas Upheld

BALTIMORE, May 29 (AP) — A Baltimore law banning billboards from residential areas was upheld today by a city court, but the billboards will remain pending a decision by the Maryland Court of Appeals.

Judge Reuben Oppenheimer continued a temporary injunction blocking removal of the boards until the Court of Appeals acts.

The anti-billboard measure was passed in April 1950 and billboard owners were given five years to remove them. Billboard interests went to court a little more than a year ago.

The case represents a new legal question in Maryland—the first application of what some call "retroactive zoning."

The billboard interests also said they should be compensated for their loss.

Judge Oppenheimer ruled City Council had the power to ban the billboards and held that "under these circumstances, the exercise of the legislative discretion is not conditional upon payment to the owner of the business affected for the use of future profits.

"The nonconforming use which the company has now lost did not give it the right perpetually to continue an activity which has been found injurious to the public

Seventy-eight billboard locations are at stake.

Those fighting the ordinance include the Donnelly Advertising Corp. and Stanley S. Grant and Samuel Cooper, owners of property where billboards were located in residential areas.

Judge Oppenheimer quoted from a California decision in handing down his ruling. The decision said in part:

"Zoning as it affects every piece of property is to some extent retroactive, in that it applies to property already owned at the time of the effective date of the ordinance. The elimination of existing uses within a reasonable time does not amount to a taking of property."

Convicted Howard Police Chief To Remain In Office

ELLICOTT CITY, Md., May 29 (AP)—Norman E. Moxley, president of the Howard County commissioners, blocked any action today against his brother who is police chief under conviction of violating the election laws.

Howard W. Clark, one of the three commissioners, moved that E. Russell Moxley be suspended as chief of police.

C. Ridgely Harmon, the other commissioner, said he would vote along with the president. The president said he wanted nothing to happen "before next Tuesday."

That will be the next regular meeting of the board. By then it is expected that action will have been taken on the police chief's motion for a new trial.

Chief Moxley was convicted of election law violation by Circuit Judge James Macgill, who heard the case without a jury. Witnesses said the police chief was handing out sample ballots and other election material supporting George P. Mahoney only four or five feet from the Ellicott City polling place.

Mahoney was defeated by former Sen. Millard E. Tydings for the Democratic senatorial nomination.

No date has been set yet for a hearing on Moxley's request for a new trial. If the conviction is upheld, Moxley faces a fine of from $50 to $500 and as much as 60 days in jail.

Baltimore Co. Beltway Bridge Bids Opened

BALTIMORE, May 29 (AP)—Bids were opened on another in the series of Baltimore County Beltway bridge projects today and the Contee Sand and Gravel Co. of Laurel was low on the latest project at $530,305.50.

The project calls for construction of multiple span dual steel beam bridges that will carry the beltway over the Pennsylvania Railroad, Southwestern boulevard and Leeds avenue in Arbutus. Each bridge will be 650 feet long and 37 feet wide.

Approaches will be constructed under a separate contract.

Allied Contractors Inc. of Baltimore apparently was low at $130,857 on a project calling for widening the existing three-span steel beam bridge on Maryland 193 over the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad at Kensington, Montgomery County. The existing 36-foot width will be increased to two 34-foot drives.

Russians Innocent Until Proved Guilty

MOSCOW, May 29 — The magazine Kommunist proclaimed today the base of Soviet law is the presumption an accused person is considered innocent until proved guilty.

The magazine World Communism said the rule had been violated in the past and was especially disregarded by the late Andrei Y. Vishinsky, chief prosecutor in the purge trials of the 1930s.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, May 29 (INS)—The big attraction in "Something of Value," Robert Roark's novel, will be Rock Hudson who was borrowed from U-I for the top male role at MGM.

At the time MGM bought Roark's novel, which deals with the Mau Mau uprising in Africa, it was said the price paid was $500,000. Originally it was announced that Grace Kelly was the femme star, but that was before Miss Kelly became a princess. Now it won't be necessary to build up the woman's part.

Rock and Phyllis plan a three months stay in Africa and will rent a house there. The picture starts as early as mid-summer and, naturally, will be one of MGM's important films.

The smartest move Margaret O'Brien has yet made to awaken movie producers that she's really a grown up beauty is accepting the title role of "Gigi" on the stage in Chicago. This is the show that brought Audrey Hepburn to stardom in New York and it has plenty of spice.

Not that Margaret hasn't been doing well in the movies, but she hopes to prove that she can be other than a sweet child.

After the four weeks run in Chicago starting June 25, the play moves to Cincinnati, and if the boxoffice is good, will be taken t New York for a summer ru Good luck Maggie.

Olive Mix, first wife of Thom Mix, has steadfastly refused give her consent to TV or moti pictures to make Tom's biograph Today Olive, who was married Tom in 1909, told me why.

She said: "A book, 'My Li With the Fabulous Tom Mix,' i being published in the fall b Prentice-Hall. I will tell the be ginning of Tom's career. He didn become an actor until after ou marriage, and I feel I had a great deal to do with his success. My daughter, Ruth Mix, who is married and has three children, is standing with me in refusing to allow our names to be used."

Tom was married three times. His second wife was Victoria Ford, and his third wife was Mabel Ward.

The nifty of the luncheon given at the California Racquet Club by the ladies in "The Opposite Sex" for their director, David Miller, was pulled by Ann Sheridan. Her gift was a man four feet, four inches tall, a midget, named Billy delivered in a suitcase. Ann played an old maid in the picture.

Ann Miller gave David fingernails because she lost hers in the fight she had with Dolores Gray. Dolores presented an old orchestration because she doesn't have a chance to sing. Joan Collins' surprise was a bubble bath with a bathtub stopper. June Allyson's gift was a Peter Pan collar.

Agnes Moorehead, who believes, in the picture, that a girl's best friend is diamonds, handed Dave diamond earrings, which he wore in his lapel. Janet Lake, who plays the weepy bride, gave him a bottle of tears. Charlotte Greenwood, who had to work, sent a pony tail because she wears one in "The Opposite Sex." I arrived very late, but in time to hear the girls sing "The Opposite Sex," written especially for the occasion by Sammy Cahn.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

If Joan Collins, who just got her divorce today, marries Arthur Loew Jr., she'll have to wait a year.

Paramount's new star, Tony Perkins, and Eileen Aiken flew to New York on the same plane. They'll attend festivities at the Actors Studio. It's a real romance.

One of the most beautiful churches in California is the new Church of St. Joseph in Pomona. A group of us went to the dedication blessing and mass. James Francis Cardinal McIntyre gave the blessing and later praised Father Thomas English for building this beautiful edifice.

Agnes Moorehead tells me she wants to go to Munich with June Allyson for "Interlude," but she doesn't know whether MGM will let her because she's in "Raintree County" and that's been postponed.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Celanese To Be Made By Japanese Company

An agreement to establish facilities for manufacturing cellulose acetate yarns and fibers in Japan has been concluded between Mitsubishi Rayon Company, Ltd., and Celatino S. A., wholly owned subsidiary of Celanese Corporation of America, it was announced yesterday.

According to word received by Mitsubishi, the Japanese government has approved the agreement, calling for establishment of a new company with paid-up capital of 600 million yen. Celatino, with minority interest in the company, is obligated to provide technical assistance in the form of licensing use of its processes and know-how.

Initial production capacity of the new facilities is planned to be 6,000,000 tons annually. The agreement between Mitsubishi and Celatino is to run for 10 years.

C&P Approves $2 Million In Improvements

The board of directors of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Maryland, in its regular meeting Monday, approved expenditures of $2,040,000 for expanding and improving telephone service in Maryland.

Authorization was given to enlarge Maryland's long distance dialing facilities at a cost of $368,000 to handle the increasing volume of long distance calls.

For Baltimore City, an appropriation of $15,000 will be used to improve circuits to Ellicott City. Approval was given to spend $26,000 for additional switchboards at Havre de Grace to care for continuing growth.

On the Eastern Shore, the board approved $825,000 for expanding Salisbury's telephone system with additional outside cable, switchboards and dial equipment. At Federalsburg and Delmar $65,000 will be spent for additional poles, wire and cable. An appropriation of $23,000 will be used to meet long distance service demands and improve circuits from Cambridge to Philadelphia, Vienna and Golden Hill.

In the Maryland area suburban to Washington, $360,000 was approved for a building addition and to expand dial equipment at the Riggs center. Two other projects totaling $56,000 will be undertaken to increase the dialing equipment and outside cable facilities in the Shepherd and Wheaton areas.

Health Staff Votes On Social Security

A Social Security referendum was held here Monday for state employes on the Allegany County Health Department staff.

Eligible to vote in the election conducted by Dr. Winter R. Frantz, health officer, were 21 employes who are members of the Employees Retirement System of Maryland.

Ballots were mailed to the State Health Department for tabulation, but informed sources said indications were that most workers voted to go into the federal program.

Washington County Cases Moved Here

Criminal charges against two persons who were indicted by the Washington County Circuit Court grand jury in Hagerstown have been removed to Allegany County Circuit Court on order of Associate Judge D. K. McLaughlin.

Margaret Norma Everitt was indicted on a charge of murdering her unnamed infant male child March 6. Raymond L. Sease was named in an indictment charging carnal knowledge of a girl under the age of 14 years last September.

Martin V. B. Bostetter and David K. Poole Jr., attorneys for both defendants, asked for removal on grounds that their clients could not get a fair trial in Hagerstown.

Sewage Treatment Plant Progresses

The contractor for the city's sewage treatment plant is making good progress, Mayor Roy W. Eves said yesterday.

During the week ending May 19, the Moyer Brothers Company poured the first wall section of the grit ejector station and made progress on the brick walls of the main pumping station and frames of the sludge bed covers.

Other crews began laying a 54-inch concrete pipe between the pumping station and the levee, and laid 130 feet of 18-inch pipe across the route of the proposed Industrial Highway.

Freedom And Peace On Memorial Day

Memorial Day is the expression of a conviction that at least once each year every citizen ought to pay a tribute of some kind to those Americans who offered their lives that this nation might live. We have set the day aside so that it will be possible for each of us to meet this obligation.

It is therefore a day for ceremonies, for parades, for speech-making. Even now that is true, though the traditional observances have been curtailed in most cities and towns across the land. It is also a day for family pilgrimages to cemeteries to pay respects to their dead. And it is a holiday, a vacation, to be spent at a resort or at home.

Few of us let the day pass without some thought of our debt to the men who have worn our country's uniform in the wars we have fought, beginning with the Revolutionary War and on through the Korean War fresh in recollection.

Our forebears brought this nation into being, preserved it from dismemberment, protected it in a world threatened by imperialism of one kind or another. In our own time Americans have fought against dictatorships denying the very ideal of freedom. We do recall this story on Memorial Day.

But merely to look back, with reverent hearts, is not enough. If we would truly honor our dead, we must be willing to ask how we can achieve the ends they fought for. At a time like this, when the tension of the cold war is easing a little because it suits our adversaries to alter their tactics, that means that we must be prepared to support decisions directed to the defense of freedom.

We want peace but we must realize that it cannot be achieved unless we do defend freedom. Our chosen defense is to build such strength that no enemy will dare to use force against it. When that is done, it may be possible to reach an understanding based on actualities. But it must be done. The strength must be built and it must be maintained. If it is not done, any homage we pay to our dead will be empty of meaning.

These Days

Democratic Aspirants

The number of Democratic aspirants for the presidency continues to increase. In addition to Adlai Stevenson and Estes Kefauver, Governor Averell Harriman of New York is now an open candidate and Mayor Robert Wagner of New York City has bespoken him as a favorite son of his state. The beating which Senator Lyndon Johnson gave to Governor Allan Shivers makes Johnson a prospect in the event that the two candidates out in the lead kill each other off, as they are likely to do.

Averell Harriman is pursuing a course which indicates that he does not believe that the Southern Democrats are essential to a Southern victory. This is based on the 1948 campaign when Truman was nominated and elected despite Southern opposition. On the other hand, in 1952 Stevenson was nominated but defeated because of Southern preference for Eisenhower.

The question of the South is a statistical one. What is the South statistically? Is not the South's increase of population due to white migrations from the North as Southern industry develops? Is there not likely to be increased Negro voting in the South? Will the voting Negro in the South cast his ballot for an anti-segregation Democrat in preference to a Republican? Will not the retention of Northern big city Negro vote by the Democratic party offset any losses in the South?

These are the questions which practical politicians ask and the answers are not clear in the available facts. There are trends and portents but no facts. Therefore it is all a guess and a gamble at this stage, and the Republicans are avoiding this particular squabble, having started it.

Certainly, Harriman is taking a straight Northern Democratic line that he can be nominated and elected no matter what the Southern Democrats do. It is an over-optimistic line based undoubtedly on the practical assumption that he or any other Democrat can carry the State of New York where large segments of the voting population are antipathetic toward the State Department's conduct of the foreign policy, particularly the sale of arms to Saudi Arabia, the refusal to permit Israel to buy arms. Also the large population of Greek origin is antagonistic to the Eisenhower policy toward Cyprus. The population of New York State is large but fragmented and politicians appeal to each fragment.

Many conservative Republicans will not vote at all if Paul Hoffman and Dean Rusk are appointed to the American delegation to the United Nations because this, for them, will be a confirmation of the intention of the State Department to recognize Red China for a seat in the United Nations by 1957. The McCarthy Republican element in New York State has not been absorbed by the regular party organization; some of them could never be.

A practical politician takes all these factors into consideration and therefore such a man as Carmine DeSapio would feel fairly confident that New York State can be carried by the Democrats in 1956. In Connecticut a big fight is developing in Republican ranks over the senatorship, Vivien Kellems, the fiery petrel of that state opposing the renomination of Prescott Bush on the ground that he is not a true son of the Nutmeg State but a Wall Street banker who only uses Connecticut as a bedroom; also he is a partner in business of Averell Harriman; also he is at heart a follower of the Acheson-Truman foreign policy. She threatens to run against him if he is nominated. By the same device, Vivien Kellems brought about the defeat of John Lodge as governor in 1954.

In the science of practical politics every item that can be measured in terms of votes counts. The practical politician is rarely an idealist who would stand on the ramparts or who would risk being burned at the stake. His pragmatism leads him to believe that once elected, he can adjust his campaign speeches and his campaign promises to the realities of the situation as he finds them in office. Thus, the Eisenhower administration adjusted itself to what it found when it took office despite the Republican platform and campaign speeches of 1952. Similarly the various Democratic candidates are weighing in the balance votes rather than high principles—at present the votes of delegates; later, the votes of citizens; but always votes. Perhaps that best explains the character of representative government.

Slogans, Crusades Not Working For Democrats

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Everything seems topsy-turvy in national politics today. The slogans and the crusaders don't seem to be working out—at least not for the Democrats.

Time was when what was "good for the country was good for General Motors." But now, since the Federal Reserve Board has put some brakes on bank credit, the officials of General Motors are complaining that sales in small business as well as big business are being hurt.

Time was when a lawyer named Murray Chotiner of California — campaign manager at different times for Messrs. Nixon, Knowland, and Warren, respectively — was projected into the headlines by Democratic critics in the Senate on the ground that once he had become associated with politics as a manager of some kind, he must presumably cease thereafter between campaigns to practice his profession.

Estes Hits At Adlai

But now Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, Democrat, takes his own opponent, Adlai Stevenson, to task for what the latter did in practicing his profession as a lawyer between campaigns. Mr. Kefauver was discussing, in one of his Florida speeches, the danger of big business gobbling up little business. He said:

"It is a remarkable thing to me that Mr. Stevenson's strangely silent on this important subject. Mr. Stevenson's silence could hardly be due to his unfamilarity with the subject. Just last year he was employed as a lawyer by the Radio Corporation of America to argue its case in the Supreme Court of the United States, against an anti-trust action brought by the United States."

Mr. Kefauver was quick to add that he did not mean "to criticize a lawyer for representing any side in a lawsuit." This is quite a concession for any Democratic senator to make today after the way various Democratic senators sought recently to pillory Mr. Chotiner for representing clients in criminal cases.

Senator Kefauver, however, goes on to soothe the "lawyer vote" as he says:

"But Mr. Stevenson's case was somewhat different. At the time he accepted the RCA retainer he was titular head of the Democratic party and what he said and did might well have been regarded as reflecting the views of the party and the direction in which it was going.

Private Lawsuit

"Since Mr. Stevenson has placed himself and the party in a dubious position, I would have expected him to have clarified his opinion and his purposes in the matter of anti-trust laws and their enforcement. His silence has been one of the curious facts of this campaign."

Maybe the silence was due to the small fact—as Mr. Stevenson himself points out—that it wasn't an anti-trust suit at all, but a private lawsuit between the RCA and the Zenith Radio Company.

But, as for "silence" by Mr. Stevenson on various things political, it isn't, of course, a bit more curious than Mr. Kefauver's reluctance to speak out about another of his opponents—Governor Harriman of New York—who, because he is a multimillionaire, might be thought to be ineligible for the presidential nomination in a party dedicated to the proposition that big business is bad and the possession of millions of dollars of private wealth is even worse.

There are a lot of more or less "titular" things about Mr. Harriman's career. He is, for instance, the "titular" head of his party in New York State today, though some say Senator Lehman is the real boss. Mr. Harriman is believed to be the "titular" head" still of a big railroad, having inherited a fortune from his father—the famous railroad king. The New York governor was for many years, too, the "titular" head of a big banking house in Wall Street. But he is reported lately to have said something to this effect to his friends:

"Big business is bad. I know about its iniquities from the inside. Let me at 'em. What's good for Wall Street isn't good for the country."

Still No Issue

It's Mr. Kefauver's implied criticism, however, of the law practice of defeated candidates in the Democratic party that has caused an arching of eyebrows on Capitol Hill. For if every candidate is to be barred from taking lawyers' fees from big corporations lest this conflict with his faithful responsibilities as "titular" head of the Democratic party in his home state or congressional district, then some men who have been re-elected recently to Congress after an interval of defeat, are going to be embarrassed and some of them, perhaps, ought not to attempt to avenge their defeat next autumn either, because they might possibly have to vote on legislation affecting some of their previous clients.

It's a topsy-turvy world in politics nowadays. There are plenty of words spoken on the stump, but so far as any thorough presentation of basic issues is concerned, the campaign is still nebulous—or perhaps, only "titular."

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Moscow hasn't accepted Ike's open skies inspection plan. But it's willing for us to gander the next eclipse through a bit of smoked glass.

It's okay with the Kremlin if we bird-watch the clouds. "But Russian hospitality," says Komrad Kosskodoff, "does not include inviting Peeping Toms indoors."

Which just about stalemates the project into a diplomatic coma of Greek lexicography. We'll have to take their word for it.

They will have military parades but no grandstands. A reduction in air forces means hangars will be used for filing cabinets. A skeleton force will be used to scare the neighbor's children on Halloween.

Mothballing the fleet will be carried to the point where it chases the leidopters out of the admiral's full dress smock.

Everything will be on a peace scale including the preparations for war. Looks like we're beginning to understand each other as the treed hen told the grounded fox.

Immigration Service's Generals Plan Method To Fortify Mexican Border

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—The House Government Operations Committee has been probing, rather gingerly, into the ramified operations of Gen. Joseph Swing, Ike's classmate at West Point, who as immigration commissioner got a modest-salaried Mexican maid sent from the border to Washington, and also keeps his daughter on the federal payroll at $4,500.

Latest Swing wrinkle being probed is the general's plan for the defense of the Mexican border—a job which falls under the Defense Department with the advice of the State Department. By no stretch of the imagination is it the job of the Immigration Service.

However, Swing, a military man, has two generals working for him—Gen. Frank Partridge and Gen. Edwin B. Howard. Their minds naturally run in military channels.

So, at about the time Gen. Swing's classmate, Gen. Eisenhower, and the president of Mexico were meeting in White Sulphur Springs to congratulate each other on the peaceful amity of their two nations, Swing's generals were evolving "Plan A" for the defense of the hitherto peaceful Mexican border.

None of the Immigration generals will tak about Plan A, but it provides for an elaborate system of roadblocks constructed from telephone poles and railroad ties; demolition squads; huge pits in highways; machine-gun emplacements; and a volunteer militia of 8,000 men recruited by the border patrol.

When queried by the House Government Operations Committee about Plan A, Gen. Swing's office replied: "The matter is classified."

NOTE—The United States has long boasted that it has the longest peaceful, undefended borders in the world.

Sen. Bricker Ducks

A secret session of the Senate Commerce Committee was about to get under way when Chairman Warren Magnuson (D-Wash.) noticed that one of the members had stepped into the next room.

"While we're waiting," Magnuson said with a grin, "we have an important matter here to occupy the committee's time."

He then read a resolution from the Duck Hunters' Association of Stuttgart, Ohio, inviting the committee to send a delegate to a duck-calling contest.

"Oh-oh," piped up Ohio's GOP Sen. John Bricker, who had kicked up quite a fuss after several of his Ohio hunting friends had been nabbed by the Fish and Wildlife Service for luring wild ducks with corn.

"Don't nominate me to go or Drew Pearson will be after me for duck-baiting!"

Lobbyists Call Shots

The scene was the Senate chamber. Two lawyer-lobbyists sat in the gallery listening to the solons debate whether New York State or the private utilities should get the Niagara River's turbulent hydroelectric power.

Six years earlier the U. S. A. had agreed with Canada on how to divide the valuable water between the two countries for power purposes. Canada had gone forward to build a successful power plant on her side of the Niagara. But on the American side there was only strife.

Five privately owned power companies coveted the choice Niagara site, but New York's Gov. Averell Harriman wanted consumers to get the benefit of low-cost public development. So did Robert Moses, head of the New York State Power Authority and a Dewey appointee.

The Senate was about to vote—after lobbyists for the five companies had pulled strings, buttonholed senators for days.

In the Senate visitors' gallery sat Manning Shaw, lobbyist for the National Association of Electric Companies, beside Harry Slater of Syracuse, attorney for Niagara Mohawk.

"Well, it's all set," Shaw whispered, "I just talked to Ives and Knowland and Bush, and tomorrow Bush will move to recommit at 4 o'clock. There'll be an hour of debate, so they won't vote before 5 o'clock. That'll give us time to get Bridges and Flanders back in here to vote for recommittal."

The attorney named Slater looked skeptical.

"Oh, Len Hall's with us," Shaw reassurred him, "and Knowland's been working the telephone to get these guys back in here."

With the backing of three influential senators and the Republican national chairman, Shaw pointed out, the Senate was almost certain to send the Niagara power bill back to committee without approval.

But the best laid plans of mice, men, and lobbyists sometimes go awry. Bridges of New Hampshire was present next day, but Flanders of Vermont wasn't. Sen. Prescott Bush of Connecticut did offer a recommittal motion at precisely 4 o'clock. But it was soundly beaten, following an hour of debate, by a vote of 48 to 38.

Seconds later, the Senate passed the bill authorizing public development of Niagara by New York State and sent it to the House.

The lobbyist named Shaw knew what the score was regarding the time, the senators, and the length of debate. The only thing he didn't get was the final score.

Merry-Go-Round

It was Warren Biscailuz, son of Sheriff Biscailuz of Los Angeles who got Jimmy Roosevelt embarassed over premature news of his third marriage. Young Biscailuz, Republican, works for Congressman Roosevelt, Democrat, and let drop the fact, when he shouldn't have, that Jimmy was going to marry his secretary, Mrs. Gladys Iren Owens . . . The man who led the Sen. Lyndon Johnson forces in the recent Texas Democratic Convention was none other than John Connally, one of the chief lobbyists for the gas bill in Washington last winter . . . The Republicans are mapping an all-out campaign to capture the Negro vote in November. They're not missing a trick. Postmaster General Summerfield has even drawn up a detailed list of Negro postal employes who have been promoted under Republican rule. He's sending their names to the Negro press as evidence that the GOP is pro-Negro. The Republicans have also launched an undercover whispering campaign in Harlem and other big Negro centers that "a vote for the Democrats is a vote for Senator Eastland of Mississippi."

On The Line

By Bob Considine

NEW YORK —(INS)— It's easy enough to bounce from one news assignment to the next. But you show up at the new one with the lint of the last on your suit.

There will be politics as usual, now, and other acts of God and man to observe. But the particular lint referred to is radioactive. There will be lingering effects. These are a few of the memories of the H-bomb test, off-beat in that there will be no reprise on what the bomb looked and felt like. None who saw it agreed, descriptively, any more than fight writers agree on the punch or punches that knocked a man kicking or how he sprawled.

Up For Revision

There was the almost embarrassing youth of the physicists and the technical people, for one thing. The traditional cartoonist's concept of the "professor" is up for revision. The scientist in the endless lab which is the Eniwetok proving ground is a beardless youth of such tender years that a parent might hesitate to let him treat a child for measles, if he were an M.D. They wear as few clothes and are as bronzed as counsellors in a boys camp. The scapular of their calling is a dosimeter to measure the amount of the radiation their bodies absorb.

"What's strange about our youth?" one re-questioned me in the shielded bowels of a ship that was to sail by remote control and catch the fallout in wierd traps. "Einshtein did his real work in his 20s. We're through—except as teachers—after 30."

And the search for a flier-scientist named Paul Crumley. It covered an area the size of Connecticut, though the man from Albuquerque had parachuted from 22,000 feet only 45 pinpointed miles out of Eniwetok. On the McKinley, we talked a lot about the breaks. If Crumley and the other man in the B-57 had arrived a few minutes late at the Eniwetok starting line, they would have been ordered back to their parking place. They were the last plane in the air for one of the three scheduled tests that had to be aborted. Three minutes after they took off, the test was cancelled for that day. On the ship we were afraid to throw anything over the rail during the search period. Once we stopped and put down boats because the radar and searchlights had found an object in the water. It was a beer can.

Gave Up War

Then there was the American who is the high commissioner of the U. N. trust area through that part of the world—a Hoosier named E. H. Nucker. He was comparing th esimple life of the 60,000 people flung over tiny coral islets in an ocean area as large as the U. S. He told of one little tribe that each year sends its young men and women 500 miles across the open sea in outriggers to become engaged or married on another island . . . to keep the blood pure. He looked out across the expanse of gear, electronics, jets, ships, AEC "shot" towers and all the other impedimenta of Operation Redwing and said, of these "simple" people, "They've learned one other thing. They gave up war before you were born."

One wondered how we passed weeks of climbing into bobbing small boats from larger ones, and vice versa, without one of us falling between and being crushed like an egg. The law of averages seemed repealed. It was hard to blieve that 15 news people and 17 federal Civil Defense administration people could be cooped so long and suffer that many frustrations and yet remain friends. There even were no arguments among those experts who measured the exact power of the bomb from 40 miles away by wetting their thumb and forefinger and holding them up to the passing gamma rays. For them and all of us, Eddie Lahey wrote the ultimate line: "Megatons schmegatons. It was a hell of a bomb."

Many Invalids Scoff At Self-Pity, Show Courage

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Many invalids have great courage. They never give up and will do everything they can to maintain their independence. These people put to shame the gripers with trivial symptoms and the self-pitying men and women who demand care when they could be helping themselves.

I take off my hat to a 36-year-old housewife from Lakeside, Wash. She is confined to a wheel chair because of arthritis involving all the joints, "from jaws to toes." Her knees are frozen in a sitting position but her "hands are not useless as yet, so that I can do a little housework like pushing around the vacuum cleaner."

Here is where courage enters the picture. This woman has been afflicted with the disease for 10 years and has not been able to walk for five. She has asked her husband to help her to her knees "since I'm convinced I can learn to walk that way though I know it will take a long time to strengthen my rubbery thighs. I want to get out into the garden this spring or at least supervise and add moral support."

This spunky patient may be able to rehabilitate herself and the process might proceed faster if she is under the care of an expert in this field. I wonder if she has read any of the books on aids for the disabled housewife?

Another case is that of a New Yorker of 43 who has every reason to be morose, resentful, and disillusioned. He was a happy, husky, healthy six-footer when he developed polio at age 15. The infection was severe and it was touch and go for a while. His legs were completely paralyzed and he spent the better part of the next few years in and out of hospitals.

By 1931 he could get about fairly well with braces and crutches. Meanwhile, he had finished high school and enrolled at the university. In 1942, out of the blue, a duodenal ulcer he didn't know he had, perforated. An emergency operation was performed and he spent the next five months battling the complications of peritonitis: multiple abscesses in the liver, lungs, pelvis, and beneath the diaphragm. A bout of pneumonia complicated the complications.

Once again he made the grade and returned to work but was never completely free of "ulcer attacks." In March of 1955 he suffered massive gastric hemorrhages and was given eight transfusions before the surgeon removed the bleeding part of the stomach. Since the operation he has been bothered by the dumping syndrome: Weakness after eating. But he is adjusting his eating pattern and overcoming this complication.

Evenings and weekends he enjoys TV, poker, foreign movies, and trips to parks, art galleries, museums, and window-shopping on Fifth Avenue. Is he sorry for himself? Self-pity was left out of his makeup and he feels fortunate to be alive.

NIGHT HUNGER PANGS

W. C. R. writes: Unless I eat before going to bed I wake up about 1 a.m. with hunger pains. Have you any explanation for this occurrence?

REPLY

Your intestinal tract may be geared to this type of feeding schedule. Other patients are bothered in this fashion because of peptic ulcer or low blood sugar.

VEIN RUPTURE

Mrs. C. writes: Could a broken varicose vein cause a woman to bleed to death?

REPLY

Yes, but this tragedy is needless because it is so easy to stop bleeding by applying pressure.

BLOOD PRESSURE OPERATION

E. D. writes: Is surgery ever employed to relieve hypertension?

REPLY

Yes. In the common, or vascular type of hypertension, occasionally the sympathetic nerves along the spinal cord are cut (sympathectomy). Another procedure is renal surgery, in which one kidney is removed when high blood pressure stems from a diseased kidney or an enlarged prostate.

FEARS DETERIORATION

M. B. writes: I'm a young man of 24. My eyes are so weak I have to wear glasses, my teeth are so bad they have to be extracted, and my hair is falling out rapidly. Do you think that my internal organs are decaying as rapidly as my outside organs and that I will not reach an average life expectancy?

REPLY

No. It is merely a coincidence that you happen to have an inherent weakness in three areas—eyes, teeth, and hair. None of these plays a role in longevity nor can they be used as a yardstick to predict your future. If you are as fussy about your health as your letter indicates, you probably will live longer than the average person because of taking good care of yourself.

Try And Stop Me!

By Bennett Cerf

How quickly can a joke get round the whole U.S.A.? A Boston columnist, with some space to fill, made up a story about a motorist whose car stalled on the Merritt Parkway. He stopped a lady driver and asked her to give him a push, telling her, "You'll have to get up to about 35 miles an hour to really get me rolling." He thereupon climbed into his jalopy, took the wheel, and waited for the push. It was a bit tardy coming, so he stole a look behind him. There was the lady — bearing down on him at 35 miles an hour! "The damage to the man's car," concluded the imaginative columnist, "was approximately $300."

Well, there wasn't too much real news that day, and the Associated Press sent the story out over its wires. Result: about 500 newspapers printed it as gospel, and about 14 radio and TV comics made it famous inside of a single day from Connecticut to Oregon!

28 Veterans Enter "500" Race Today

Five Rookies Will Vie In Auto Speed Classic In Indiana

INDIANAPOLIS, May 29 (INS)—The 28 veterans and five rookies who will race for glory and gold Wednesday in the 40th annual memorial day auto classic were warned today to exercise special caution in making the first turn because of what may be hazardous track conditions.

Indianapolis motor speedway officials told the 33 drivers that because of the heavy downpours that have left the infield a virtual quagmire, "the first part of the race could prove fatal to some."

"The race is not won in the first half-mile" speedway president Tony Hulman and U. S. Auto Club chief stewart Harry McQuinn warned. They explained that if the sun does not dry out the infield by race time (11 a. m. CDT) "there could be trouble on the first curve."

Showers and hot, humid weather were predicted for the afternoon of the big race.

However, one of the fastest races in history has been forecast in the wake of the record qualifying time made by many drivers.

Heading the field of 33 cars, which averaged 142.507 mph in qualifications, is Pat Flaherty, of Chicago, who turned the 10-mile four-lap trial in 145.596 mph, a new record.

Three former champions are in the lineup—Bob Sweikert, who drove to victory last year after the fatal five-car pileup killed the defending champion Bill Vukovich; Troy Ruttman, who drove to victory in 1952 when Vuky crashed, and Johnnie Parsons, who won the last time the race was shortened by rain in 1950.

Five rookies are in this year's field—Keith Andrews, Bob Vieth, Jack Turner, Bob Christie and Billy Garrett.

Killibrew Features Nats' 6-5 Victory

BALTIMORE, May 29—(INS)—A pair of homeruns by Bonus Baby Harmon Killebrew led the Washington Nats to a 6-to-5 victory today over the Baltimore Orioles.

Killebrew, who got into the game when second baseman Pete Runnels suffered a severe spike wound in the second inning, broke a scoreless tie in the fourth when he hit his first homerun of the season over Memorial Stadium's new inner fence after Eddie Yost had doubled.

A triple by Lyle Luttrell and a single by Lou Berberet gave the Nats a 3-to-0 lead in fifth inning and Killebrew slammed his second homer with the bases empty in the sixth off reliefer Johnny Schmitz.

Dean Stone, who won his second game with help from Connie Grob in the eighth inning, shut out the Orioles until two out in the sixth when he walked Bob Nieman and Gus Triandos hit his sixth homerun of the year.

Sentinels To Seek City Title In Thursday Tilt At Allegany

Camper Win Would Mean Triple Tie; Game Set 3 P. M.

Fort Hill High School needs one more victory to clinch the city baseball title and the Sentinels can sew it up Thursday if they can sweep their series with Allegany's Campers at Campobello. The game is scheduled for 3 o'clock.

Allegany, on the other hand, could throw the race into a three-way tie by upsetting the Sentinels.

Fort Hill leads with a 2-1 record, LaSalle is 2-2 and Allegany 1-2.

Coach "Bobby" Cavanaugh's defending champions clobbered Allegany on May 4 by the score of 10-0 in the series opener with Jesse Markley being returned the winner over Arthur Washington.

Fort Hill has split even with LaSalle while the Explorers divided with Allegany in their series.

The Bi-State Conference championship race will end in a (13-3) tie if both Fort Hill and LaSalle win their final games Thursday.

LaSalle hosts Beall at Stitcher Field at 4 p.m. The Explorers hold a 6-1 decision over the Frostburgers.

The third Bi-State game on tomorrow's card finds Mt. Savage at Hyndman at 4 o'clock.

Allegany Athlete To Get Babst 32nd Award Friday

Hazelwood, Rapplier, Varsity Club At Ft. Hill, LaSalle, Beall

Commencement week in Allegany county high schools is here and much interest centers in who will receive the student-athlete awards that are presented annually at Allegany, Fort Hill, Beall and LaSalle.

The "granddaddy" of all sports awards in the county is the Babst Award, a gold wrist watch, which has been presented to an Allegany student annually for the past 31 years. The donor is Charles E. Babst, Allegany High Alumnus, and now an employe of the Celanese Corporation of America in New York City. The long list of names includes Tommy Mont, now head football coach at the University of Maryland, winner in 1940.

The thirty-second Babst award will be presented at Allegany's commencement Friday night.

At Fort Hill Thursday night, the Hazelwood Award, a gold wrist watch donated by George F. Hazelwood, Cumberland contractor, will be presented to the boy adjudged the top student-athlete. This is the 16th year for the Hazelwood award.

On Sunday evening, the Rapplier Club Award, also a gold wrist watch, will be presented at LaSalle's commencement at Carroll Hall. This trophy was inaugurated by the LaSalle graduating class of 1933 and has been awarded annually for the past 18 years.

At Beall High, the Varsity Club Award for excellence in studies and athletics, will be presented at graduation exercises Friday night. This is the 18th year for the Varsity Club award, inaugurated in 1936.

The Frostburg Eagles Award, a feature at Beall for the past seven years, has been discontinued.

Brooks Snap Pirates' Win Streak, 10-1

Newcombe Is Victor, Long Goes Hitless

PITTSBURGH, May 29—(INS)—Don Newcombe stopped Dale Long's fantastic home-run hitting streak today as he pitched the Brooklyn Dodgers to an easy 10-1 winning streak for the Pirates.

The defeat ended a four-game wining streak for the Pirates.

Long, who had smashed eight homers in eight consecutive games, went hitless in four trips. The lone Pirate tally came in the second inning when Lee Walls doubled and went in on Gene Freese's single to left.

Long fanned in the opening inning, flied to Duke Snider in center in the third, and popped up to the infield in the sixth and eighth.

The Dodgers set new highs for the 1956 season in both hits and runs, Randy Jackson leading a 14-hit assault off six Pirate pitchers. The loss was charged to starter Ronnie Kline.

The Dodgers shook up their lineup at the outset with Jackie Robinson taking over first base, Gil Hodges moving to right field and Jackson handling third base.

Snider extended his hitting streak through 18 games.

Yankees Fall Before Slants Of Nixon, 7-3

Mantle, Goodman, White Hit Homers

NEW YORK, May 29 (INS) — Willard Nixon, whom Boston tried unsuccessfully to place on the disabled list two weeks ago, saw a perfect game slip away in the seventh inning today, a no-hitter in the eighth and a shutout in the ninth as he subdued the New York Yankees, 7 to 3.

Mickey Mantle's 18th homerun, following an error by third baseman Frank Malzone with two out in the ninth, averted a shutout. Yogi Berra followed with a triple and scored on second baseman Billy Consolo's error.

Nixon, long a Yankee nemesis, set them down in order until he walked Mantle with two out in the seventh. The next inning, Billy Martin poled a long triple over Jim Piersall's head in deep center, again with two out.

It was Nixon's first start since Commissioner Ford Frick refused to let the Red Sox put him on the disabled list May 15 because of a chronically sore elbow. He recorded his first 1956 victory against two losses.

Home runs by Billy Goodman and Sammy White paced a 13-hit Red Sox attack on Don Larsen and Rip Coleman. Goodman drove in three runs with his homer and a single. Mickey Vernon with a double and White with his homer and a single batted in two apiece.

Shonter Retains Marbles Title, Captures SS. Peter-Paul Tourney

Beats Teddy Clayton In Finals; Fort Hill Games Set Thursday

Julian Shonter, last year's marbles champion at SS. Peter and Paul School, repeated yesterday in the next-to-final school tournament of the current series sponsored by the Times-News which will pay all expenses of the Cumberland Area champion (to be decided June 5) to attend the National Marbles tournament June 17-24 in Asbury Park, N. J. Only Fort Hill finals remain to be played, and these games are scheduled for tomorrow.

Shonter had to shoot off a tie with John Stillwagon to win the right to play Teddy Clayton in the finals. Shonter defeated Stillwagon and then took two straight from Clayton to win the school championship two years in a row.

Sixty eight boys participated in the SS. Peter and Paul tournament. In addition to Shonter, Clayton and Stillwagon the other semi-finalists were Bert Mason, Arlie Gene Lease, Sylvester Meade, Bill Boyer, Mike Madden, Joe Wheeler, John Turano, Anthony McElfish and Dick Orndorff. Coach "Bobby" Cavanaugh unveiled his "secret weapon" yesterday in the person of Denny Yaider, who started on the mound for the first time and twirled Fort Hill's Sentinels to a 12-2 victory over Flintstone's Aggies in a Bi-State Conference contest at Fort Hill Field.

Yaider, a senior who has appeared on the Sentinels' roster for several seasons, pitched a one-hitter, walked eight and fanned seven as the Hilltoppers bagged their 12th win in 15 starts and moved into a first place tie with LaSalle High School. The deadlocked leaders windup their season in games scheduled here Thursday.

Edgar Parsons, third sacker, was Fort Hill's "big gun" with four hits in four official trips. He collected three triples and a single, scored four runs and batted in a like number of tallies. Galen McGregor also smashed a three bagger and Clarence "Pooch" Lewis rapped a double.

Flintstone's lone safety was credited to Mann. Box:

Trainer Buys Dead Horse For $6,000

INGLEWOOD, Calif., May 29 (INS)—Trainer Johnny Pappalardo bought a dead horse for $6,000 at Hollywood Park.

Pappalardo claimed Bold Trip, the 5-2 favorite in the eighth race at Hollywood Park Saturday. Jockey Willie Shoemaker pulled the horse up on the far turn when he went lame. The horse had broken an ankle and yesterday it was reported the horse was destroyed.

Pappalardo had entered a claim for the horse for $6,000 and under the rules of racing the animal became the property of Pappalardo and the Beechwood Stable immediately after the race.

Jockeys And Horses Scarce At Pimlico

BALTIMORE, May 29 (AP) — Horses are so scarce at Pimlico that free transportation is being offered owners in New Jersey.

Pimlico has George Cook at Garden State near Camden soliciting entries for races. As an inducement, horses are trucked without charge to and from Baltimore.

Besides Garden State, Delaware Park near Wilmington also has siphoned off some of the horses from Pimlico this week.

There's also a scarcity of jockeys. Uusually there are 80 registered at Pimlico. Today there are only 20.

Others who lasted were Gene Andrews of El Rancho, Cal., Lieut. Gene Eyler, an European-based serviceman whose home is in Buffalo, N. Y., and Peter Grant, Jr., of Phoenix, Ariz.

Thirteen of their countrymen fell behind, including highly regarded threats as Hobart Manley of Savannah, Ga., Frank Strafaci of Garden City, N. Y., and Billy Goodloe of Valdosta, Ga.

The Changing World Of Soap Opera

Whenever life starts getting a little too difficult, I turn to "This Is Nora Drake" for solace. The problems of Nora, a soap opera heroine, are so much more manifold than mine — or for that matter, anyone's — that your're bound to feel a lot better about your lot after listening to hers.

Nora came to life on NBC in October 1947 and is now on CBS—it was once on both networks — at 2:30 p. m. (EST) Mondays through Fridays and, brother, what that girl has gone through! Nora is a nurse at Page Memorial Hospital and right on the day the soap opera went on the air — a sign of what was in store — she got jilted by Dr. Ken Martinson who married the daughter of a wealthy hospital trustee in order to further his career, the bum.

But that was just the beginning. Pretty soon a temperamental writer comes along to woo her but Nora will have none of him and, as a result — love in the world of soap opera is outsize — he goes off his noggin and has to be put away where, I guess, he still is. Next comes Fred Molina, a happy-go-lucky, rather mysterious fellow who woos her awhile, walks out on her, but eventually — after she's discarded one suitor and been discarded by another — marries her.

The soap opera world is supposed to be changeless and, in the sense that the heartbreak is unending, it is but the nature of the heartbreak changes all the time. Actually, soap opera is a kind of reflection in a distortion mirror of our own times. For instance, when Nora joined the hospital, she was a member of the general medical staff and the patients generally had been run over by automobiles or were stricken with amnesia or some such thing. (Amnesia has always been a wonderful soap opera ailment.) In this way, a guy can arrive in town, fall in love with the leading lady and then, just before he marries her, his wife and four children show up.

Nowadays, four out of five doctors at the hospital are psychiatrists and the show abounds in psychiatric jargon. The most popular ailment in Page Memorial these days are neuroses of which they have a wierd variety. Keeping apace with the times, Nora has moved over from general medicine to be chief assistant to the head of the mental hygiene clinic. If arteriosclerosis becomes the issue of the moment one day, you can bet your bottom dollar Nora will move to that department.

Nora's marriage didn't last very long. Her husband turned out to be a secret investigator trying to break up a crime syndicate, and he gets murdered by it. That, too, is a sign of the times. Murder is much more fashionable in soap opera than it used to be, a reflection of our own violent times. There have been two other murders on Nora Drake, including another of her suitors, and much discussion of a 30-year-old still unsolved murder. As a matter of fact, Nora almost got murdered herself at the instigation of a venomous female who lusted after her husband who was then alive.

Nora currently in love with a newspaper reporter named David Brown and he, too, is up to his hips in murder. His parents are just out on parole after serving 30 years for that 30-year-old murder and David Brown is trying to prove they didn't do it. His close pal and fellow newspaperman Jimmy Powell is the latest to be added to the pile of corpses while helping David out on his chore.

At the moment not even the cast knows who killed Jimmy. There are about four suspects. One of the chief current troublemakers is David's sister Lorraine and she, too, is symptomatic of the changing world of soap opera. The old-time soap opera villainess was just malicious, envious, lustful, greedy, or vengeful. The new-type villainess may harbor all those frailties, too, but it's because she's neurotic. Lorraine, for instance, is an alcoholic and she has just about every neurosis known to medical science.

Births Announced

FROSTBURG — Two births have been announced at Miners Hospital:

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Duncan, 75 East Main Street, a son yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hovatter, Consolidation Village, a daughter Sunday.

Plumbers To Meet

Local 489, Plumbers and Steamfitters Union (AFL-CIO), will meet Friday at 8 p. m. in the Allegany Labor Temple, according to Charles Cross, business agent.

Gil Hodges of the Dodgers began the 1956 season with 11 grand-slam home runs to his credit.

When you are cleaning from room to room, take your plants and put them in the bath tub, utility tub or the kitchen sink. Bathe them with the sprayer attachment of your kitchen faucet or the sprayer attachment of the vacuum cleaner. The plants are the better for this type of bath, and the moisture treatment is not overdone.

Full scale illumination is necessary for the basement. Work there calls for accurate vision. Light colored basement walls help.

Daily Bridge Lesson

by B. Jay Becker

North dealer.
Neither side vulnerable

North: ♠ 8 2 ♥ 6 3 2 ♦ A J 5 ♣ Q J 8 6 2
West: ♠ K Q 10 7 5 ♥ J 10 5 ♦ 9 3 ♣ K 7 3
East: ♠ 9 6 3 ♥ K Q 9 8 ♦ 10 8 6 2 ♣ 5 4
South: ♠ A J 4 ♥ A 7 4 ♦ K Q 7 4 ♣ A 10 9

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 N T	Pass
2 N T	Pass	3 N T

Opening lead—king of spades.

Most players are familiar with the play where the declarer, having A-J-x, does not take the opening lead of the king. This play has acquired the esoteric name of Bath Coup because it is supposed to have had its origin in Bath, England, way back in the whist days. Declining the king serves several functions. The leader cannot continue the suit without losing a trick. Many times the forced shift to any other suit assures declarer the timing to fulfill the contract. Also, the opening leader may not be sure declarer has both ace and jack, and sometimes continues with the same suit. Usually it is not in declarer's interest to take the king lead. The hands where the king is taken are generally those in which declarer is vulnerable to a switch to another suit.

South, in today's hand, fell victim to his familiarity with the Bath Coup. He ducked the king of spades, hoping West would continue the suit. West, having taken note of his partner's three of spades, shifted to the jack of hearts. This held the trick, and West continued with the ten, overtaken by East's queen. South was already fighting a losing cause. If he allowed East to win the queen, a spade return would put him out of the running. If South took the queen of hearts he would ultimately be defeated by the loss of a spade, a club and three hearts.

Declarer should take the first spade. There is no combination of the opponents' cards which can defeat him if he does. Nine tricks are certain, regardless of who has the king of clubs. Nor does it matter how many clubs either defender has. At trick two South plays a diamond to the jack. The queen of clubs is led and finessed. If it loses, South has ten tricks. If it wins, a low club is led and finessed. Again game is sure, and this is so even if West shows out. The declarer in such case would have three club tricks, four diamonds, a heart and a spade.

South dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

North: ♠ Q 7 ♥ 8 6 4 3 ♦ A J 9 7 4 ♣ A Q
West: ♠ J 10 9 6 4 ♥ — ♦ 6 3 ♣ 10 9 6 4 3 2
East: ♠ K 5 3 2 ♥ K Q ♦ Q 10 2 ♣ J 8 7 5
South: ♠ A 8 ♥ A J 10 9 7 5 2 ♦ K 8 5 ♣ K

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♥	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
3 ♥	Pass	5 ♥	Pass
6 ♥

Opening lead—jack of spades.

North, having an opening bid of his own, supplemented by the extra values created by the heart fit, properly indicated the slam prospects by his five heart bid. The conventional four notrump bid asking for aces held by the opening bidder is not appropriate to this hand. Whether South has one or two aces is a secondary consideration. The question is rather one of intermediate cards and distribution. North had no solidity in any suit, but he did have an opening bid plus facing an opening bid plus, which usually signifies a slam.

West's jack of spades drew the queen, king and ace. South had all the tricks except for a possible heart and a possible diamond loser. He had no control over the division of the two adverse hearts, and if they did not break 1-1 a heart loser was inevitable. All his efforts were therefore bent to avoid the loss of a diamond. Although a finesse against the diamond queen offered an even chance of success, South as part of good technique also had to give thought to increasing his chance in diamonds beyond 50 per cent.

He led the ace of hearts, and though West showed out, South's position peculiarly enough became impregnable. He had the slam salted away regardless of who had the queen of diamonds. He overtook the king of clubs with dummy's ace, and on the queen of clubs pitched his losing spade. Now South trumped dummy's remaining spade, this being the key play to insure the contract. The stage was set for the end play. South led a trump which East had to win. There was no play left for East to make which would not give South the hand. If East returned a club or a spade declarer would discard a losing diamond, trumping either one in dummy. If East returned a diamond instead, it would be right into dummy's ace-jack. By trumping dummy's spade, South eliminated all danger of a diamond loser. Without this maneuver South goes down to defeat because East can exit with a spade and wait for his diamond trick.

Tile And Carpeting Bid Accepted

After inspecting the samples of carpet and tile for the Circuit Court room, the Allegany County Board of Commissioners accepted the bid of the Millenson Furniture Store.

The board decided to have the best type carpet placed in the front portion of the court room and tile the rear section where spectators sit. Millenson will install the plywood underlay and the carpet and tile for $4,210.

Baby Sitter List Is Being Revised

The City Recreation Department is revising its baby sitter list, according to Robert E. Pence, director.

He said the department has had so many applicants for places on the list that a new one will be prepared.

Those interested in getting on the list were asked to contact the Recreation Department this week.

Pence said the present list, which numbered 51 when it was mimeographed last October, will be checked in the process.

Names of applicants are screened by the Rec Department and then checked with school, police and juvenile authorities.

Pirates To Hold Series Ducats For Local Patrolman

Several of his fellow officers wrote a letter as a joke to the Pittsburgh Pirates Baseball Club, which is currently providing some of the better baseball played in the National League, and signed Patrolman John G. Powers' name to the missive.

Monday night Bob Prince, broadcaster of Pirates games, read the letter which requested reserved seat tickets to the World Series in Pittsburgh to baseball fans over the air with the comment "We'll be glad to give them to you."

Powers said last night if the Pirates should win the National League pennant and he gets the ducats he'll enjoy every game by himself much to the chagrin of his companions at Police Headquarters.

In Memoriam

Loving memory of our dear husband and father, Grant Kesner, who passed away 5 years ago, May 30, 1951.
Gone, dear Dad, gone forever.
How we miss your smiling face,
But you left us to remember
None on earth can take your place;
A happy home we once enjoyed,
How sweet the memory still,
But death has left a lonliness
The world can never fill.
WIFE AND CHILDREN

In memory of our beloved daughter, Meldria June Twigg, who passed away May 30, 1949.
There's an open gate at the end of the road.
Through which each must go alone.
And there in a light, we cannot see,
Our Father claims His own.
Beyond the gate, our loved ones
Find happiness and rest,
And there is a comfort in the thought,
That a loving God knows best.
Sadly missed by her parents, brother and Grandmother Twigg

Stock Market Scores Its Widest Gain In 17 Years

NEW YORK, May 29 (AP) — The stock market in a tremendous advance today scored its widest gain in 17 years.

The lunge ahead snapped off a three-week reaction that had started when the market was near record high levels.

Wide gains in prices were ascribed by brokers to buyers anxious to add to their holdings at the unusually low prices brought on by the sharp reaction.

The Associated Press average of 60 stock was up $3.30 at $178.50, greatest gain since Sept. 5, 1939. That was when Hitler was marching through Poland at the outset of World War II.

Gauged against the average, the quoted value of securities listed on the New York Stock Exchange gained an estimated four billion dollars. During the reaction, an estimated 18 billion dollars was lost from the quoted value.

Despite the tremendous gains pricewise, the market was neither especially active nor broad.

There were 2,430,000 shares traded as against 2,780,000 shares yesterday when the market was lower.

The list was composed of 1,160 individual issues, 40 less than yesterday. There were 867 gainers and 121 losers with 3 at new highs for the year and 56 at new lows.

With the average up $3.30, the industrial component added $4.90, railroads were up $3.30, and utilities gained 60 cents. Yesterday the 60-stock average lost $2.20. Today's average of $178.50 compared with the record high of $191.50 on April 6.

November Ballot Will Contain 7 Amendments

Outline Of Proposals Forwarded To See

Ballots to be used in the November 6 general election will contain seven constitutional amendments, according to State Senator Charles M. See.

A summary of the proposals to be submitted to the voters of Maryland, he said, has been prepared by the Department of Legislative Reference.

The first amendment affects the time for county councils to meet. At present, councils of counties having a charter form of government "shall not sit more than one month in a year for . . . enacting local legislation." The proposal would require charters to specify the number of days, not to exceed 45 which may but need not be consecutive, for the county council to meet, and all legislation shall be enacted at the times so designated.

The second affects the introduction of bills in the General Assembly. At present, bills may originate in either house during the last 10 days of a session only with approval of two-thirds of the members.

Affects Late Bills

The amendment would limit the introduction of bills, under the same voting rules, during the last 10 days of even-year 30-day sessions and the last 20 days of 90-day sessions held in odd numbered years.

Approval by the Senate of the Governor's recess appointments would be modified by a third amendment. At present, nomination of appointments made while the Senate is not in session "should be made within 30 days after the next meeting of the Legislature."

The change would require that the nomination of a recess appointee be made to the Senate on the first day of the next regular Senate meeting.

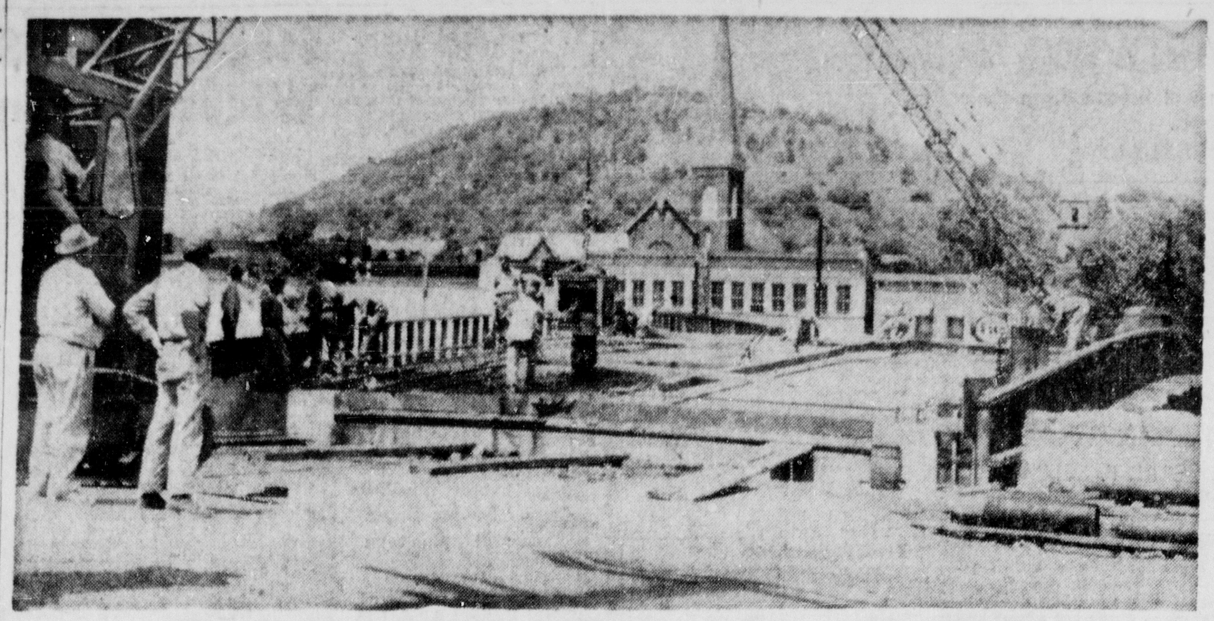

The next proposal has to do with the time for the Governor to submit his budget to the General Assembly. At present, a Governor must submit his budget within 20 days after the Assembly meets for 90-day sessions—except in the case of a newly elected Governor and then within 30 days after his inauguration, unless such time is extended by the General Assembly. The proposal would strike out this exception for a newly elected Governor.

Clears Obsolete Laws

Obsolete material in the Constitution of Maryland would be dropped by the next amendment. It would repeal or amend 49 sections of the Constitution which by general consent are obsolete, outmoded or incorrect.

Absentee voting would be affected by another proposal. At present, the Assembly may provide for absentee voting for voters who are absent at the time of any election. The amendment would allow the Assembly to provide for absentee voting by voters unable to vote personally because of physical disability "which shall confine them to a hospital or cause them to be confined to bed."

Compensation of judges of the Orphans' Courts could be affected by the last amendment. At present, such judges are paid by the day for the time they are actually in session, as provided by law. The proposal would allow them to be paid as may be regulated by law.

Deck For Market Street Span Poured

A big crane lowers a bucket of concrete for the deck of the new Market Street Bridge, which was poured in a single operation here yesterday. Crews of H. D. Case Inc., Mt. Airy, worked beneath sunny skies to lay the deck of the span. Sidewalks on either side of the roadway will be poured soon, and officials of the company said the bridge should be completed in less than six weeks. Specifications for the span required that the deck be poured in a single slab, with expansion joints at both ends, to protect the steel girders from seepage of water. A similar span is to be built at Baltimore Street.

ICC Sets Up New Safety Regulations For Trucks

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission today established stiffer requirements for braking systems on interstate trucks in an effort to prevent "runaways" on the highways.

The new regulations follow a series of spectacular accidents last year in which heavily loaded vehicles went out of control on steep grades at San Francisco, West Newton, Pa., Kittaning, Pa. and Cumberland, Md. These mishaps resulted in 17 deaths and caused major property damage.

The revised regulations require special safeguards against leakage from air and vacuum operated brakes, both automatic and manual means for applying emergency brakes, and an audible or visible warning device which will inform the driver of loss of pressure in air or vacuum reservoirs. This device will be required on interstate buses as well as trucks.

The effective dates for the various rules are on a staggered basis, starting July 1 and ending Jan. 1, 1957.

Tydings Primary Campaign Cost $108,645

BALTIMORE, May 29 (AP) — It cost $108,645.99 for Millard E. Tydings to stage his successful campaign for the Democratic nomination to the Senate and $4,000 of it still is owed.

The campaign committee had to borrow $5,750 from Bruce Livie, Baltimore auto dealer, to pay all its bills for the May 7 primary, according to a financial statement filed today. Livie has been repaid $1,714.62.

Besides his loan, Livie donated $2,175. Tydings himself spent $5,000 and his relatives chipped in $14,500.

Other large donations included J. Newton Brewer of Montgomery County, $3,500; Larry MacPhail, former baseball executive, $2,500; Thomas S. Nichols, executive of Mathieson Chemical Co., $2,000; and E. Brooke Lee of Montgomery County, $1,000.

A $100 a plate dinner produced $23,813.69.

The largest expenditure in political subdivisions were $12,500 each in the Fourth and Fifth districts of Baltimore City.

Expenditures listed for counties included:

Allegany, $2,600; Frederick, $1,800; and Garrett, $600.

A. Gordon Boone, winner of the Democratic nomination for Congress in the Second District, also filed his report today and showed contributions of $11,150.

Man, 52, Found Dead Of Bullet Wound At Home

Harry Luther Swandol, 52, of 115 Offutt Street, was found dead of a gunshot wound at his home yesterday.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, ruled the death a suicide.

Swandol, who was employed as a machinist helper for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, was found on the living room floor of his home.

City Police Detective James E. Van said that after arriving on the scene he found Swandol lying face down on the floor near the davenport with a .22 calibre single shot Winchester rifle under his body.

Authorities said he was alone at the time of the shooting. His feet were against the davenport and his head was facing the dining room door.

Van said Swandol apparently placed the muzzle of a borrowed gun under his chin while sitting on the davenport and after the shooting he slumped forward.

Authorities said the victim had borrowed the rifle from a neighbor. A native of Hancock, he was born December 4, 1903 and was a son of the late George and Ida (Gladhill) Swandol.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Hannah (Sciese) Swandol, two sons, Charles Edward Swandol and William Luther Swandol, city; two daughters, Mrs. Ruth Jeannette Miller and Mrs. Thelma Mary Davis, city; a brother and sister, William Swandol and Mrs. Sally Mills, both of Park Head, Md.; and 11 grandchildren.

The body will be at the Scarpelli Funeral Home this afternoon.

Traveling Bees Stop Over At Bus Station Here

The Greyhound bus station here was "buzzing" with activity yesterday afternoon as a large group of bees stopped over en route to their destination.

They were clinging in a large bunch under the concourse toward the North Mechanic Street end of the building. Many of them were buzzing in the vicinity of the building, making it a little uncomfortable for people walking under the porch of the building.

A local apiarist was notified and looked the situation over. He told personnel at the bus station it was probably a part of a swarm, and advised them to leave the bees alone. Which is what everyone was doing anyway.

Both Morgan and Drew, Fletcher said, have been charged with raping an 18-year-old Lonaconing girl, and a second charge of raping a 14-year-old Lonaconing girl has been placed against Morgan.

The hearings are being held to determine if there is sufficient evidence to justify holding the men for action of the October Grand Jury.

Maryland Land Week Plans Will Be Made

Meeting Slated Here In July

Plans for the seventh annual Maryland Land Week, September 9-15, are being formulated by Soil Conservation Districts throughout the state.

Joseph M. Steger, Allegany County farm agent, announces that during the July meeting of the District Supervisors of Allegany County Soil Conservation, which will be held in his office at the Court House, plans will be made for the annual observance.

The Soil Conservation districts are being requested to call a meeting of representatives of all civic, educational, agricultural, religious and conservation groups in their district for the purpose of forming County Land Week committees.

Among the business to be discussed at the July meeting will be the explanation of Land Week objectives, conservation tours, school assemblies, organizational meetings and civic projects, as well as the organization of a County Land Week committee.

The objectives of Land Week, according to Steger, are to encourage the use of soil and water conservation practices by those who till the land; to impress all citizens of the state with their dependence upon the soil and acquaint them with the effects of erosion, improper drainage, and soil deficiencies upon their health and welfare.

Also to create a better understanding of the interdependence of soil, forests, water and wildlife and the need for their wise use and development for their esthetic and economic values.

After the splash party, the seniors may hold picnics at the park or return home for dinner.

The dance, in the park pavilion, will get underway at 8 p. m. according to Robert E. Pence, rec director, who said an orchestra will be provided.

Board Approves Infirmary Care For Children

Commissioners Order Emergency Program

An order calling upon Earl D. Grim, superintendent of the Allegany County Infirmary, to receive children for overnight care in emergency situations, was adopted yesterday afternoon by the County Board of Commissioners.

The order was approved on motion of Commissioner James Orr and seconded by Commissioner William H. Lemmert on their periodic visit to the infirmary yesterday. Commissioner C. N. Wilkinson was not present.

Provides For Nurse.

The superintendent is instructed to receive for admission to temporary detention quarters in the infirmary any child or children offered for admission in emergency situations upon the request of any responsible public official or law enforcement officer for overnight care.

In the event that any child is six years or under, the superintendent shall provide a practical nurse to attend the child. Where the children are above six years of age the question of the need for a practical nurse will be left to the discretion of the superintendent.

This order fulfills a recommendation made by the April grand jury in Circuit Court. The grand jury recommended that social agencies of the county, including the Welfare Board, the superintendent of the County Home as well as representatives of the Salvation Army and Associated Charities meet together to work out a plan for temporary but prompt care of children under the age of six years who are brought to them by various police agencies.

Had No Facilities

The grand jury noted that Allegany County at that time did not have facilities to care for children under the age of six, who are the victims of circumstance and cannot be left alone and without care.

Attention was focused on this situation in March when a Polish Mountain man was arrested after striking his wife. When the man was jailed and his wife hospitalized, a state trooper had to drive their four children around for about four hours before finally obtaining temporary lodgings for them with the Salvation Army.

Pfc. David E. Haines and Pfc. Thomas E. Hartman, of Romney, who were already in the company, transferred to the six-month training program from the ordinary Reserve and will take their active duty starting in June.

During May, Major Patsy Algieri, unit commanding officer, promoted Pfc. John B. Green of Mt. Savage to corporal and Sgt. George W. McElfish, city, to staff sergeant.
